eautiful Prosperity.
eality, Or Myth?
A Happy Stowaway. ermans Work Hard.
-By ARTHUR BRISBANE-

(Copyright, 1928.)

CCORDING to Mr. Raskob and other Republicans converted to Democracy, our prosperis "a myth." It is a pleasant th for many, including owners 24,000,000 automobiles now runing in this country and buyers of 5,000,000 odd new cars made in 28.

RESIDENT COOLIDGE says prosperity is real. He told his net on Tuesday, that condis are even better than they e a year ago. The fact that a ional election has caused no back, most unusual occurrence, ases him.

so, the President says governvenues collected next will exceed all estimates make any deficit impossible.

BSENCE of business disturbance in this election is due y to the fact that both cans please big business.

ere are also cold facts and es that disturb the "myth" ry. Tomorrow's distributions lividends and interest will total 0,000,000 in cash, a new Novemrecord, to say nothing of large k dividends, as good as cash, not subject to income tax.

ny will say "If our prosperis a myth, please don't disturb myth."

ND Mr. Sloan, president of General Motors, hints of "a ant surprise" awaiting stockrs of his company.

en Mr. Sloan, practical man, "pleasant surprise," he money, or stock dividend, another part of the pros"myth."

meaning of the word prosperity" is often misunood.

is not limited to those with ions, wondering how they will nvest money paid them tomorw.

Prosperity is important because involves the happiness of the ole people.

IT means sending children to high school, instead of sending them to work.

It means an automobile, to be enjoyed by the whole family, old people especially.

Prosperity means freedom from worry, better civilization, happier mothers, able to give their children what they need.

And this country is prosperous.

THE great Zeppelin, barring accidents, will have let France see what the German Republic can do, and will be safe home, at Friedrichshafen, when you read this.

The French will not fail to think hard as they see that weight-carrying airship above them.

YOUNG TERHUNE, the stowaway caddie on the airship, knows by now that it pays to be audacious. He says to this newspaper's correspondent on the airship: "I don't care if they send me home in irons, I am satisfied."

THE boy will find fame and large earnings awaiting him in Germany. Hotels are anxious to entertain him, free of charge, and German movie managers await him with fine cash offers. He will screen well; courage always does.

BACON in his essay on "boldness," writes, "There is in human nature generally more of the fool than of the wise; and, therefore, those faculties by which the foolish part of men's minds is n are most potent.

'onderful like is the case of s in civil business; what oldness. What second and Boldness . . . It doth te, and bind hand and foot that are either shallow in nt, or weak in courage, are the greatest part; yea, evaileth with wise men at per cent of business and success is boldness. And ent of failure is rashness.

NG proved Zeppelin success, across the Atlantic, ermany's engineers and builders e now testing huge hydroairanes, destined for ocean flights. These air giants, weighing 20,000 unds, loaded, start from the ter in 14 seconds.

For a nation forbidden by the rsailles treaty to build a hoge air fleet, Germany is doing ell. She leads the world, by a ide margin in commercial aircraft.

And commercial aircraft can rop TNT and poison gas, quite asily.

AN emergency board named by President Coolidge to conder railroad wages, suggests 6½ er cent increase for 66,000 trainhen. That is another straw in he wind of prosperity, and welome. Railroad men are underaid, from top to bottom, especialy conductors, engineers and thers bearing the main load of responsibility.

THE public pays their wages and would like to see them higher.

The Interstate Commerce Commission can easily adjust the matter for the roads. With higher rates.

Railroad men live everywhere, and what they earn goes back into immediate circulation.

PARALYSIS LEAVES KILLER

Paul Jaworski, "Flathead gang" leader, sentenced to die in the electric chair, will walk to his doom.

His left side paralyzed by a bullet in a futile effort to out-fight Cleveland police, Jaworski was returned to jail here on a cot to hear his sentence of death. Since then he has recovered rapidly and is now able to stand, able to move slightly his left leg and, it is believed, will be able to walk in a short time.

This was revealed today by Chief County Detective George Murren after a conversation with the prisoner.

Jaworski on October 22 was sentenced to electrocution for the slaying of Isaiah Gump, mine payroll guard. He killed two policemen in his effort to escape the Cleveland police.

The man who with Jack Vasbinder shot his way out of the Allegheny county jail 14 months ago, verified the report that his bed was afire in his cell Tuesday.

"I expected they would say I tried to kill myself. Never fear, I have too many more important things to think about now," Jaworski told Chief Murren.

The date for the execution has not been set by Gov. Fisher.

Jaworski has announced that he will not permit further appeals in his case.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE STATE PRISON FARM

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Joseph Duda, white, and Henry Willard, Negro, are fugitives today with a price on their heads. The two men, trusties, escaped from the state prison farm. Prison authorities offer a reward of $50 for the capture of each. Duda was serving a three-year term from Marion county, while Willard was serving a 10-year term for armed robbery in Cabell county.

POLL GIVES HOOVER SWEEP

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Final figures in the Literary Digest's presidential election poll were published today, giving Herbert Hoover a commanding lead over Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

A total of 2,767,263 votes were received out of the 19,000,000 ballots sent out, and of this number Herbert Hoover received 1,750,584 to 987,795 for Smith, or a percentage of 63.2 for Hoover and 35.7 for Smith. Some of the returns were scattered among other candidates.

The Digest poll showed Gov. Smith leading only in four states—Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina.

Republican leaders, of course, are well satisfied with the results of the poll, but Democratic leaders deprecate it.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is quoted by the Digest as saying that:

"It is interesting to note that if the figures shown in the poll are corrected through applying the same errors as occurred in the 1924 poll, Gov. Smith carries New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Illinois."

Figures for some of the larger states follow:

	Hoover.	Smith.
New York	218,920	185,659
Illinois	156,641	97,535
Pennsylvania	177,598	88,627

Massachusetts	75,100	39,023

The injured were caught in the accidents near Bakerstown and Sandy Creek.

As the car of William Preece, 21, of Sandy Creek, with five passengers aboard, rolled along Sandy Creek road at 2:30 o'clock this morning the machine of LeRoy Drake, 1219 Grandview avenue, crashed into it.

GRAF ZEPPELIN ABANDONED AS OCEAN PASSENGER SHIP

International News Service.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 1.—Although pleased with the wonderful performance of the Graf Zeppelin in riding through two storms—one on each side of the Atlantic—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the mighty dirigible, expressed disappointment today that the elements had prevented him from making a better speed record.

It was revealed that the Graf will not be put in the regular trans-Atlantic passenger service because stronger ships are required for that use. However, the Graf will be sent back upon another voyage to the United States as soon as possible.

BLAMES BAD LUCK

"Never in my whole life did I have such bad luck with Zeppelins as on this American trip," Dr. Eckener told International News Service. "On the first voyage (westbound trip) the stabilizer was torn—a misadventure which could only have happened through a combination of wholly inexplicable circumstances.

"On the return trip I wanted to show how fast the Graf really is, and would have done so if it had not been necessary to make long detours and if we had not run into a cyclone with the wind blowing 40 meters per second off Newfoundland.

"Just before we reached the European coast we struck another storm, which was certainly the toughest luck for one trying to make a record. But this ship stood the most severe test in splendid shape. And, for this reason, the voyage is most interesting to me personally.

"I realize that for regular trans-Atlantic traffic we must build bigger, stronger and speedier airships that can weather all storms without danger of breakage."

Dr. Eckener indicated that the airship was really in serious danger in the storm off Newfoundland. Nevertheless, he said that the Graf would

WIFE OF BAKER WINS LIMITED DIVORCE

Marion E. Nicholas, 7141 Hamilton avenue, won a limited divorce from William F. Nicholas, 619 Homewood avenue, in an opinion handed down by Judge Frank P. Patterson today. Nicholas is a well-to-do baker.

In his opinion Judge Patterson refers to the fact that Nicholas has been named defendant in an alienation of effections suit filed by Thomas Lloyd, of Shaler township. The matter of alimony will be decided later, Judge Patterson ruled.

WIFE SEEKS VETERAN OF SPANISH WAR HERE

Former buddies of Thomas Casey during the Spanish-American war, have been asked by Casey's wife to make a search for her husband in Pittsburgh. Casey left his home 15 Paradise street, Stockton on Tees, Durham county, England, 40 years ago and came to this country. Casey at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war enlisted in a local regiment. Casey, according to his wife, sometimes uses the name of Roach.

FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKED AT WEST HOMESTEAD

Traffic on the Monogahela division of the Pennsylvania Railroad was delayed this morning, due to the derailment of seven freight cars near the West Homestead Station. The freight train buckled when the engineer applied the air to stop his train as a passenger train pulled into the station. Two tracks were blocked.

WILKINSBURG FORBIDS NIGHT STREET PARKING

Motorists of Wilkinsburg who expected to save garage rent by using the streets in front of their residences for parking space all night felt the wrath of the borough ordinance prohibiting it when more than 100 were fined $1 each after hearings before Burgess J. R. Langley. Police officials are starting a crusade against the practice.

ILLEGAL PRISON TERM CUT IN HALF

Another illegal imprisonment by a police magistrate was revealed in court today. The case was of such serious nature, however, that Judge Thomas D. Carnahan, instead of freeing the prisoner, cut the sentence from 60 to 30 days.

Luke Person, Negro, 2942 Webster avenue, sentenced to serve 60 days by Magistrate E. M. Hough in Center Avenue Police Court on a suspicious person charge, sought release by habeas corpus proceedings.

The hearing brought out that Person really should have been held on a charge of robbery. Cora Dawson, 52 Crawford street, testified that Person and another had held up her husband and robbed him of $123. The other man got away.

The court remarked that Person should have been held on a charge of robbery, but on account of the seriousness of the case he would not release the prisoner, but would hold him until he had served 30 days.

HOMESTEAD ESTATE LEFT TO CHILDREN

The $16,500 estate of Mrs. Lizzie Kerr, 217 East Fifteenth avenue, Homestead, is bequeathed in equal shares to her children, Harry J. and Mae Kerr, in her will probated yesterday. Her husband, John Kerr, is named executor.

CITY GROPES IN FOG; RAIN EXPECTED TO BRING RELIEF

The absence of wind was responsible for Pittsburgh's groping about in a dense fog today.

Not until tomorrow, when rain is expected, will there be any considerable change in the weather. Rain, falling in the Middle West today, is expected to reach Pittsburgh tomorrow and wash out the fog.

To the north and west of the rain belt there was a high pressure area, which was expected to arrive in Pittsburgh on Saturday, bringing with it lower temperatures. In the Northwest today, low temperatures were reported, but by the time the cold blast reaches here, it is expected to have lost much of its severity.

FUTURE ZEPS MUST BE FLEETER, ECKENER SAYS

By DR. HUGO ECKENER,
Commander of the Graf Zeppelin.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction Prohibited in Whole or in Part.)

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Oct. 31. (Wednesday)—Our trip to America, particularly the return flight, has demonstrated that dirigibles will have to be speedier. However, our trip, both ways, would have been more satisfactory if we had not been so much at the mercy of hostile winds.

EXCLUSIVE

Monday night, off the grand banks of Newfoundland, we were caught by an 85-mile-an-hour wind and carried far off our course. Despite the vigorous efforts of our motors to combat the storm, we were carried off into fog banks and did not know if we were over land or sea for several hours. We were carried nearly 150 nautical miles north of our course.

The Zeppelins of the future will have to have more powerful engines to combat such a situation.

The fact that we outrode a storm of those proportions, however, shows that the construction of the Zeppelin is basically right and that only a bigger power plant is needed and either more motors or swifter ones.

Trans-Atlantic travel, now that it has been proved mechanically correct and possible, awaits only financing to permit it to become an everyday thing. The engineer has done his part, and it is now up to the banker to furnish the money.

I have decided not to try to fly over Berlin en route to Friedrichshafen. There are great land fogs to be encountered in such a trip, and I shall not wish to battle them.

she turned over on her side and appeared to go to sleep."

Alvin then said he tried to awaken her and when he succeeded she shook her head wearily and said:

"No, no, Alvin, I made a mistake. It was I and I alone that did it. I went alone. Please forget what I just said."

Alvin and the doctors said they hoped to nurse the waning strength of the girl so that she might reveal the name of the missing person before it is too late.

Certain clues, which indicated the girl was not alone in the basement, caused authorities to round up several close friends and acquaintances for questioning. None could throw any light on the strange case.

The burned girl named Charles W. Hitchcock, night marshal at Lake Bluff, and by day a teacher of expression and psychology, as her "astral sweetheart." She had studied psychology and salesmanship under Hitchcock. She declared her love for him was purely psychic.

Hitchcock, a former motion picture and vaudeville actor, is living at home with his wife and four children. He admitted teaching the girl, but said he did not know she was "in love" with him.

Fog Good for One Singer; Aids His Escape

A new use was found for fog today. William Singer, 40, of Sharon, found it. A prisoner at the Allegheny County Workhouse at Blawnox, Singer was working on the grounds when he decided that the fog banks that clouded the district today constituted an ideal means of escape. So Singer went away from there.

The man arrived at the workhouse October 15 for a scheduled 60-day spell. He had been sent up from Mercer county for vagrancy.

20 German Girls Offer to Wed Stowaway

International News Service.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, No. 1.—"Red" Terhune, of St. Louis, the world's most famous stowaway, can have a bride as well as a good job if he wants one. Following the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin today it was revealed that nearly 20 German girls have written and telegraphed to Friedrichshafen offering to marry the young adventurer. "Red" showed little interest in the marriage proposals, however. Countess Von Brandenburg-Zeppelin, daughter of the late Count Zeppelin, inventor of the superdirigible, offered to give Clarence a home or to care for him until his future is decided.

HOSPITAL EMERGENCY DEPARTMENT PLEDGED

The emergency department in the new Allegheny General Hospital has been taken as a memorial through a single gift, leaders of the $5,000,000 building fund appeal reported today, as they massed forces for their second report luncheon in the William Penn Hotel at noon.

The new department will bear the name of the late Henry Chalfant, and is made possible by the gift of his widow, the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, general chairman, announced. It comprises one of the striking departures to be evident in the new 15-story hospital.

Mr. Chalfant died in June in Biarritz, Switzerland, after a summer devoted to preliminary work for the proposed hospital, of whose board he was a member. He had already made a substantial pledge to the building fund when he left for a tour of Europe, and that gift has been doubled by his widow, who is making it in his memory.

VIOLENT WINDS FORCE ZEPPELIN OFF COURSE

By ROLF BRANDT,
Correspondent for Lokal Anzeiger, Berlin, Aboard Graf Zeppelin.

(Clopyright, 1928, by the New York American, Inc., and King Features, Inc. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part.)

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Oct. 31.—At 5:55 Greenwich time (12:55 p. m. New York time) the Graf Zeppelin was riding high over European waters above the Bay of Biscay.

The stormy weather reported from the vicinity of England induced Dr. Eckener to assume this more southerly course and after piercing through a wall of stormy weather at 1:30 (8:30 New York time), we were steering direct for the French coast line, which we expected to reach in the vicinity of the estuary of the River Gironde.

EXCLUSIVE

We do not expect to reach Friedrichshafen until early on Thursday morning, which will be some time during Wednesday night according to New York's clocks.

Our stout airship was driven much further southward than we had expected to be by the elements. This was due in a large measure to the contrary weather reports which we received en route as we approached the headlands of Europe. We have encountered unusually strong north winds which our able navigators reckon as having a velocity of 22 meters per second, this affording another reason for our slackened speed and delaying our arrival at the mooring mast near the shores of Lake Constance.

HOOVER' CITIZEN- MELLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP.)—Secretary Mellon, a letter written to Jam Francis Burke, general counsel for the Republican National Committee, said that Herbert Hoover has filed income tax returns for each and every year since the enactment of the income tax law and has paid his taxes as an American citizen.

In the letter, made public by Burke at the Hoover general headquarters, the Treasury secretary asserted he had personally inspected Hoover's returns for the years 1914 to 1925 inclusive and that he had been informed by the Internal Revenue Commissioner that the record showed that the returns for 1926 and 1927 are now in the hands of the Internal Revenue Agent in charge of the usual checking up.

"I have your letter of even date," Mellon wrote, "inquiring as to whether or not Honorable Herbert Hoover has filed income tax returns and has paid income taxes as an American citizen under the Federal Income Tax Laws for every year since the enactment of the laws in 1913.

"The records of the Bureau of Internal Revenue show that Mr. Hoover has filed income tax returns for each and every year since the enactment of the law and that he has paid his taxes as an American citizen in accordance with those returns.

"I have personally inspected the returns of Mr. Hoover for the years 1914 to 1925, inclusive, and I am informed by the commissioner of internal revenue that the records of the bureau show that the returns for the years 1925 and 1927 are now in the hands of the internal revenue agent in charge for the usual checking up, and that the taxes have been paid to date.

"While it is not customary to give out information in regard to the income tax returns of individuals, I note from your letter that Mr. Hoover assents to the request and I am glad to furnish the information."

The southwestern disturbance is centered over Eastern Kansas this morning, and it covers the entire Southern Plains States section. It is producing cloudy weather over nearly the entire country and rain in Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Arkansas, and snow farther north over Wyoming, Nebraska and Northern Iowa. The rainfall during the last 24 hours was light at many places, but moderately heavy in Nebraska, Kansas and Northern Texas.

The Northwest high moved down into the states. The highest barometer, 30.64 inches, is now over North Dakota. It is causing cold weather over the entire Northwest section; freezing weather as far south as Southern Colorado, and as low as six to eight degrees above zero along the Canadian border.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or falling slightly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.8 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dam No. 6, 7.5. The dams are up.

WOMEN LIKE AIR TRAVEL

are wondering just what sort of a wardrobe one wears for such an expedition, here are the suggestions that I would make to any woman contemplating a trans-Atlantic airship journey. She should wear knee-high, fur-lined boots and woolen hose. Her clothing should be warm, but not too bulky. She should include in her kit a camel's hair sleeping bag and, if possible, a lap robe and chemical heat bags. This, of course, will only apply until heating systems are perfected for dirigibles. Then there will be no more trouble for the woman traveler than there is on a ship that crosses on the surface of the ocean.

My presence aboard the Zeppelin was foretold to me in a sharply defined vision in the Astor Hotel in New York on Wednesday night of last week. I had hoped to go, but did not know for sure that my application would be accepted. Then a voice spoke to me and told me that I was going and to make my preparations and to say nothing to anyone. I decided to go home to Tannersville and prepare to sail. Early next morning I telephoned to Hugh Allen, of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation and he informed me that my application for a passage had been accepted and that I could sail with Doctor Eckener.

HOOVER'S BIRTHPLACE

Here, years ago, was born Herbert Hoover, a boy of the West Branch (Iowa), cornfields. The world soon will know if it is possible for him to rise from the farm to the White House.

ONLY ONE CAN REALIZE BOY'S AMBITION

Today two men, Alfred E. Smith and Herbert Hoover, look forward to realization of their common boyhood ambition, the White House, ambition of every American boy. The nation must wait only a week to hail the victor!

NEW YORK'S SIDEWALKS

And here, in Oliver street, in the heart of New York, was born Alfred E. Smith—Gov. "Al" of New York. The sidewalks were his home, his greatest school. Can he rise to the White House?

SMITH PLEDGES STOP TO LABOR INJUNCTION ABUSE IN U. S.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Another slashing attack on Republican policies and leaders behind him, Gov. Smith was back in New York today to finish his fight for the presidency on home soil. He will not leave the city again until he knows whether he is to be the next president or just another defeated aspirant for that high office.

Gov. Smith closed his campaign outside New York last night with a speech in New Jersey, in which he assaulted the whole Republican breastworks, from candidates to policies, and again dealt in no uncertain terms with the issues he himself has raised in the campaign.

The speech followed an old-fashioned political celebration in the Democratic stronghold of North Jersey, which for sheer exuberance, red-fire and boistrousness equaled anything that the Democratic candidate has met in his campaign travels.

The Jerseyites literally took the lid off to welcome "Al" from across the river, and it was early this morning before the last dying embers of the red-fire burned out and the whoopee-makers trudged wearily homeward.

Gov. Smith's Newark speech was primarily a bid for the big labor vote of the country, for he pledged himself to end the abuse of labor injunctions, to seek out and remedy the causes for unemployment and to pursue no policy as president, with regard to tariff or general business, that "will take one 5-cent piece from the pocket of the American working man."

CHALLENGES HOOVER

But with his own proposals, he coupled a slashing and sardonic attack upon Herbert Hoover, Charles Evans Hughes, Senator William E. Borah, and other Republican orators, as well as upon the record of the past eight years.

Again he sarcastically challenged his Republican opponent to say where he stood on prohibition, on water power, on farm relief, and, with just a tinge of bitterness in his voice, he denounced Republican efforts "to scare the American wage-earner" with the bogey of "hard times" should there be a Democratic victory next Tuesday.

He held aloft circulars which he said Republican employers had been slipping into the pay envelopes of their workmen, which "gravely and grossly misrepresented the national campaign." Such employers, he asserted, were "not the best kind of citizens."

The Republican leadership, he declared, is "trying to fool the American workmen," just as it has "fooled the American farmer" for eight years. And in this connection he flung out a definite challenge to Mr. Hoover to say flatly at St. Louis tomorrow night whether he did or did not keep farm prices down in the war period.

"Senator Borah told the farmers that during the war and reconstruction period, Mr. Hoover kept up the prices of farm products," he said. "But Mr. Hoover sent a cablegram from Europe over here that was transmitted to one of the farm leaders saying he kept prices down."

"Now, they can't both be right. He either kept them down or he kept them up. Senator Borah said he kept them up. He said himself he kept them down. Now this can be explained. Mr. Hoover speaks this week in St. Louis. Let him tell the American farmers who is right, Senator Borah or himself.

"And let me go a step further. Let him deny the presence of this cablegram and I will produce it."

Gov. Smith dealt sardonicaly with the speeches which Charles E. Hughes is making for Mr. Hoover.

"Why," he demanded ironically, "isn't Mr. Hughes running for the presidency? He is doing more work to elect the Republican candidate than the nominee himself. It's the same old thing—history repeating itself. We have a quiet candidate and he has to have a spokesman. The people are getting a little tired of that sort of thing."

Mr. Hughes' challenge to Gov. Smith to define more clearly his water power stand was answered with vigor by the Democratic nominee. He repeated that he not only favored public development and ownership of water power, but "the government must keep its hands on the switch that turns on and off the power," which means governmental control as well.

ASK HOOVER! HE SAYS

"That is understandable, if I know anything about the English language," he asserted. "Tonight in Newark, I ask Gov. Hughes to ask his own candidate the same questions he asked me."

Just as the Republicans are endeavoring to "fool the people" on the farm and water power issues, so with prohibition, Gov. Smith said.

"Talk about fooling the people," he exclaimed. "If ever there was a deliberate party attempt to becloud a great issue it has taken place with relation to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

"Mr. Hoover says it is 'a noble experiment.' Mr. Hughes says he is not satisfied with it. But Mr. Hoover doesn't say what he intends to do about it.

"Now, the thing for Mr. Hughes to do, instead of asking me questions, is to ask his own candidate if he is satisfied with it, and, if he is not, to ask him what he intends to do about it, because up to now he has not said."

The entire Republican campaign, Gov. Smith asserted, is being promoted upon the theory that "the people can be fooled." Particularly on the issues of farm relief, water power, prohibition, prosperity and immigration.

He grew ironic in mentioning Mr. Hoover's pledge to call an extra session of Congress to deal with the farm problem next spring, and his statements about "stabilization corporations" and "inland waterways" as aids in the solution of the problem. If these measures are so efficacious, he asked, why haven't the Republicans adopted them in the last few years of their control at Washington?

The promise of an extra session, he said, was an indication of Republican panic.

"What will he do at the extra session?" Gov. Smith demanded. "The one great fundamental, underlying principle that has to be met to cure the farm situation, the care of the exportable surplus, he is unalterably opposed to."

The Republicans are again trying "to fool the people," the Governor said, with reference to his own stand on immigration.

"They whisper around," he said, "that if Smith is elected he will open up the flood gates and let 'Europe run all over the United States.'

"This is an insult to the intelligence of the American people. The Democratic platform clearly said we will not let down the bars one inch. I said in my speech of acceptance that that ought to settle it. But it is hard to settle a man or a party that sets out deliberately to misrepresent and to deliberately fool the people."

Gov. Smith came out in flat opposition to the "equal rights amendment" sponsored by the National Woman's Party, designed to do away with all legislation applicable only to women.

"When it comes to custody of children, property right, I will go as far as any man to maintain the equality of men and women. But I will never consent to an amendment to the Constitution that will prohibit the states from enacting legislation to promote the health and comfort and happiness of women who work in factories.

"'Equal rights' is rather a catchy phrase, but when it is applied to my opposition to it it should read that I am opposed to sweating women, to ever-working women, to under-paying women, and to working them in lines that interferes with their health."

34 IN COUNTY KILLED IN MONTH'S AUTO CRASHES

The number of homicides dwindled, the number of suicides increased, and the death rate from traffic accidents mounted alarmingly in Allegheny county in October, Coroner William J. McGregor reported today. Alcoholism took 12 lives, a normal prohibition record.

During the month, 115 persons in the county died violent deaths—14 of them by their own hands. Six were slain. Automobile accidents took 34 lives, a sharp increase, according to McGregor.

A total of 280 deaths was reported during the month. The violent deaths were divided among these causes: Auto accidents, 34; homicides, six; alcoholism, 12; traction accidents, three; railroad accidents, 12; poison, five; motorcycle accidents, four; falls, 15; drowning, two; burns, four; hydrophobia, one, and a concrete mixer accident, one.

In Penn Avenue Police Court he was ordered to replace the set. He purchased a set costing $85 and yesterday afternoon lost his temper again. During the second quarrel he wrecked the new set.

Chauncey E. Frazier, Jr., 21, of Washington, former W. & J. student, suffered a fractured right arm, head lacerations and bruises. Annie M. GEN. MITCHELL IS FOR SMITH

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Gen. William Mitchell, suspended chief of the Army Air Service, criticized prohibition, the Republican party and Herbert Hoover in a speech prepared for delivery today at a meeting under auspices of the Alfred E. Smith Independent League of Illinois, and urged the election of Gov. Smith as President.

The Republican party, he said, "has become the symbol for conservation, monopoly, selfishness and dishonesty in government."

Gov. Smith believes in "a liberal policy of common sense, honesty and law enforcement," Gen. Mitchell said.

"The Republican party is the prohibition party. Most of its members drink, but because they think they can get more votes they adopt the hypocritical attitude of favoring the continuance of this terrible condition into which a few zealots plunged us."

Police in Dress Suits Guard Opera Gems

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Ten squads of "soup and fish" policemen—the ones who can wear evening clothes and get away with it—attended the opening of the Chicago Civic Opera season last night.

They were there not to see and hear "Carmen," but to keep eagle eyes on gems estimated to be worth $10,000,000 and which adorned Chicago society, out in numbers for the event.

Private detectives, engaged by society leaders as personal watchmen, also were present. Outside, additional police squads patroled the streets.

VOTE EARLY OR YOU MAY LOSE CHANCE TO CAST BALLOT

Even though a voter is in line at the polling place at closing time he may lose his opportunity to vote, the Allegheny County Bar Association election frauds committee pointed out today in an educational statement issued on the coming election. The committee made an earnest appeal for the people to vote early in the day.

Election officers must close the polls promptly at 7 o'clock, and they must not permit more than four electors in excess of the number of booths within the guard rail at any one time, not including persons giving assistance. When the time for closing arrives they may qualify and hand ballots only to the electors within the guard rail. After this number have voted the judge of election must exclude all electors from the room.

The matter of closing time voting was before the courts in Philadelphia recently, the statement reads, and it was expressly ruled that the election law must be strictly obeyed. To eliminate any chance of persons being left outside the railing, the committee has appealed to persons to vote early in the day, especially housewives, who should go to the polls before 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The fraud experience of September, 1927, it is pointed out, should be sufficient proof to everyone that the utmost vigilance is necessary to insure a fair semblance of an honest count in many districts. This will be absolutely necessary until Pennsylvania installs voting machines in the populous districts.

The bar association committee has met frequently and is co-operating with other civic agencies to insure an honest count in Allegheny county in what is going to be the greatest election ever held in the point of ballots cast. Fraud, like that of last year, usually is attempted after the polls close. To stop such violations the committee has asked judges of the Common Pleas Court to designate sufficient of their number to sit all Tuesday night and be ready to enforce the law. Arrangements are being made for a sufficient number of deputy sheriffs to answer every call for assistance where there is the slightest disturbance.

The committee also is enrolling sufficient assistance in every suspected district to insure proper sealing of ballot boxes after the ballots are counted and delivery of the boxes to the places designated by law.

The committee called especial attention to the voting machine amendment which is No. 13 and the election district amendment which is No. 6, on the ballot. The committee states that it has been impressed with the significance of the apathy toward the two amendments so strongly urged by their advocates and look favorably upon their passage.

William M. Robinson, 916 Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, on behalf of the heirs of the Telford estate, made an information against J. Orbin Hall, 1108 Wood way, Braddock, charging larceny of coal.

The information, made before Justice of the Peace George B. Telford, Rachel Telford, Bertha Telford, Ruthana Telford and Minnie Telford Tilton are mentioned in the information as owners of the property from which the coal is alleged to have been mined.

SCORES IN RACKET ROU SCURRY TO SECURE BA

Although true bills against them will not be handed down by the grand jury until tomorrow, more than a score of persons named in the indictments recommended by the jury appeared yesterday in the office of District Attorney Samuel F. Gardner to arrange bail. This was done to escape being placed under arrest and lodged in jail.

County detectives today were serving 50 new subpenas on witnesses who will be called before the grand jury tomorrow.

The district attorney explained to the visitors that the bail could not be accepted until after the indictments are returned although he did set an amount that would be needed at that time. The amounts asked by the district attorney will range from $1,000 to $5,000. The smaller amount is for those implicated in the slot machine 'racket' while the large amount is for those indicted on liquor charges, extortion, conspiracy and malfeasance in office.

If the indictments are returned during the forenoon tomorrow, a rush is expected in the district attorney's office when the defendants place bond. It is expected that there will be some for whom it is necessary to obtain warrants. A reasonable time will be allowed for those named to voluntarily appear but if they fail to put in an appearance county detectives will be sent out to arrest them.

ZEP SMASHES RECORDS

make a second American trip as soon as possible, abandoning the proposed flight to Berlin. The famous aeronautical expert added:

"As a regular passenger ship the Graf Zeppelin is out of the running, because stronger ships are needed for that."

WORLD LAUDS FEAT

With all the world lauding her feat, the Zeppelin was back in her hangar today, after smashing all records for a trans-Atlantic crossing by lighter than air craft on her return flight from Lakehurst, N. J.

The huge silver-sheened ship first appeared over the airfield here today at 4:46 a. m., Berlin time (10:46 p. m., Wednesday, Pittsburgh time). She had covered the 4,000 miles from Lakehurst in 68 hours and 52 minutes at an average speed of slightly less than 60 miles an hour.

With 24 passengers, her crew of 40 and one stowaway safely aboard, she cruised about over the field more than two hours while thousands below shouted and sang themselves hoarse.

After slowly nosing downward, the Zeppelin dropped landing ropes at 1:02 a. m., Pittsburgh time. She was brought to earth easily by a ground crew of several hundred and pushed safely into her hangar at 1:06 a. m., Pittsburgh time, 71 hours and 12 minutes after starting from Lakehurst.

The majestic picture of the "queen of the skies" floating above in the dim light of the dawn thrilled the thousands who had congregated on the field below hours before.

When the ship appeared, the throng broke through the police lines wildly gesticulating and shouting. After a time, the crowd became more orderly and took to singing patriotic songs played by a band on the field.

Dr. Eckener was the first to descend from the ship. He was closely followed by Capt. Lehmann. Both had slept little on the trip and looked tired but triumphant. They were warmly greeted by their wives, who carried huge bouquets of flowers.

Then the customs officials boarded the airship. Jocular remarks from the crowd entreated them not to take as long as the American officials at Lakehurst.

Theodore Matejko, the cartoonist, who made the trip both ways, was the first passenger to leave the ship.

"It was an exceedingly fine trip," was his comment upon being presented with a bouquet by admiring friends. "It was much better than the one across to America."

All the passengers looked fine. None appeared to have suffered any ill effects from their adventurous voyage. Clara Adams, the only woman aboard, left the ship wreathed in smiles.

"I've had a wonderful trip," she proclaimed enthusiastically. "I'll never forget it. I didn't have the slightest feeling of fear at any time even when we went through that terrible gale over the Bay of Biscay. The only part of the trip I didn't care for was the last two hours when we circled over the field."

The best previous time across the Atlantic by a lighter than air craft was made in 1919 by the British dirigible R-34. This airship crossed from Roosevelt Field, L. I., to England in 75 hours, reaching the southwestern point of England in about 65 hours. The Graf reached the French coast in less than 60 hours.

On her round trip, the Graf covered approximately 10,000 miles. On her outward voyage she was forced far to the south by storms and needed more than 111 hours to complete her voyage. On this trip she was also delayed by a mishap which damaged the horizontal fin of her rudder.

MORE NEWS OF WEATHER HELD NEED OF ZEPPELIN

By COMMANDER MAURICE R. PIERCE,
Executive Officer of Lakehurst Naval Station and Chief U. S. Naval Observer Aboard the Graf Zeppelin.
Written Expressly for the Hearst Newspapers.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction Prohibited in Whole or in Part.)

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Oct. 31, (Wednesday)—Monday afternoon weather reports gave promise of a fine crossing, but that evening a strong gale swooped down on us from Labrador without warning. For hours the Graf Zeppelin made no headway against a 70 to 80-mile wind.

The winds carried with them a dense fog and at the same time static was so heavy at Cape Race and adjoining stations, that we could not communicate with them.

Suddenly the mist broke and revealed land and lights beneath us. The next thing was to find out what part of the country it was. After considerable peering through fog and occasional clearings, it was established that we were over Conception Bay.

Despite the heavy gale passengers slept peacefully. On the surface of the ocean waves were mountain high and it is safe to say that had our passengers been aboard even the largest liner most of them would have been sick.

For satisfactory trans-Atlantic air service over the great circle route it is essential that we have additional weather information from this section of the North Atlantic, probably by the establishment of meteorologic stations in Labrador, etc. Such information would have given the Graf Zeppelin warning of the big blow of Monday night and saved much trouble.

TAXPAYERS OF PENNSYLVANIA

WHY PAY

223½ MILLION DOLLARS FOR THE USE OF 138 MILLION DOLLARS

When the Same Results Can Be Obtained Without the Payment of $85,560,000 Interest?

This Is the Question You Will Decide Nov. 6

Fourteen Amendments to the State Constitution are to be voted upon in the approaching election. Five of them (Nos. 2, 3, 4, 9 and 10) would authorize increasing the State's indebtedness by $138,000,000. The projects themselves are entirely worthy. But the State's fiscal officers—Auditor General Edward Martin and State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis—have demonstrated that they can be financed out of current revenues.

The Five Amendments for Loans Are:

No. 2—$8,000,000 For Pennsylvania State College
No. 3—25,000,000 For Purchase of Land for State Forestry Purposes
No. 4— 5,000,000 For State Armories
No. 9—50,000,000 For Additional Highway Purposes
No. 10—50,000,000 For Welfare Purposes

Why Are These Amendments on the Ballot?

Because: When the Legislature considered these proposals in 1925, it seemed that the issuance of bonds was the only method of financing these projects. However, the financial condition of the Commonwealth has improved to such an extent that now the revenues far exceed expenditures, thus making it wholly unnecessary to borrow money for these purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer and Miss Taxpayer

You now pay no taxes—personal, realty or income—for STATE purposes.
If these amendments pass, new taxes are inevitable.

NEVILLE ISLAND BRIDGE IS OPENED

The Coraopolis - Neville Island Bridge over the back channel of the Ohio River was formally opened yesterday with ceremonies on the span. Borough and township officials as well as representatives of the county participated. The speakers were County Commissioners E. V. Babcock and Joseph G. Armstrong and County Controller Robert G. Woodside. County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich presided.

A parade preceded the ceremonies on the span. The ribbon marking the formal opening of the bridge was cut by Charles Wood Dithrich, 6, son of the County Solicitor, and Nella Mae Shanks, 4, daughter of Paul D. Shanks, commissioner of Neville township. The county speakers presented the bridge to the two communities and it was accepted by D. L. McKee and W. A. Irvin, representing Coraopolis and Neville Island, respectively. Last night the two communities united in a Hallowe'en celebration.

TEACHERS' JOBS DISCUSSED

Positions for 114 new teachers were discussed last night at a meeting of the finance committee of the Board of Education working on the 1929 budget. Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of schools, and his first associate, B. G. Graham, gave explanations for the positions. The board members decided to eliminate one job, that of adviser to girls in the Liberty Junior High School, because of the school's small enrollment.

P. R. R. TO ELECTRIFY LINES EAST; PITTSBURGH NEXT

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Electrification of the entire Pennsylvania train service, freight and passenger, between Wilmington, Del., and New York has been authorized by the directors, President W. W. Atterbury has announced. The cost will be approximately $100,000,000, with the work scheduled for completion in seven or eight years.

The project covers the passenger and freight service on 325 miles of line and 1,300 miles of track, beginning at Hell Gate Bridge, New York, where connection is made with New England. It will extend west and south to Wilmington, west from Philadelphia on the main line in the direction of Harrisburg as far as Atglen, Pa., and on the low grade freight lines which join at Columbia, Pa., and connect New York, Philadelphia and Wilmington with the west.

The Pennsylvania on completion of this work will have the greatest electrified track mileage in the world, President Atterbury said, and for an electrically operated line its freight and passenger business will be the largest.

PITTSBURGH NEXT

The next electrification development, he added, will be in and around Pittsburgh, and this later will gradually be connected with the eastern lines. As business and service warrants, the entire system will be electrified, he said, but probably not for several years.

Electrification is expected to accelerate freight shipments 25 to 30 per cent. No reduction in time of the limited trains is contemplated now, but President Atterbury explained the Pennsylvania would be in a position to give faster service as needed.

The Philadelphia Electric Company and Public Service Corporation of New Jersey will supply power.

Overhead construction like that in Philadelphia will be used, as more economical, powerful and safer than the third rail type, as used in Long Island.

The entire work is to contracted out. Regarding the Pennsylvania's building its own power station, President Atterbury said the road's policy was to develop industries along its lines rather than to go into business itself.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—President Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who personally announced in New York and Philadelphia today the proposed extension of the electrification of the road to New York, told newspapermen here that no new financing would be required to put through the project. He said the company expected to finance the work from earnings.

ZEPUMMERS DEFY HALLOWEEN EDICT OF POLICE

...WDYISM AND HILARITY RUN HIGH DOWNTOWN

ma... as ... ing Pittsburgh mummers last night made Halloween whoopee lin from behind false faces made faces at the police edict against rowdyism and property destruction.

And all the while the blue-coated ...ibs of the law stood limply by, ...h threats of arrest made by Peter ...Walsh, superintendent of police, ...strating just that—threats.

That ...dem shrieked and hilarity ran ... WOI... ... bright-lighted Fifth avenue ... ... n other congested business centers of the city. And out in outlying residential districts garbage cans tumbled over with all the abandonment of yore and gates disappeared in the same old mysterious manner.

From early evening until midnight the Old Witch rode the heavens on her proverbial broom, sweeping a conglomoration of weird and funny faces in and out of the city's byways. The goblins, too, were loose on a wild rampage, the echo of which only died out with the dawn.

But with daylight all that remained of the hectic night was puddles of colored bits of paper cluttering up the streets and some stranded gates and porch furniture laying around in the suburbs.

GUNS BELCHED DEATH ON HALLOWEEN 10 YEARS AGO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,

Sun-Telegraph Sports Writer, who 10 years ago was Pittsburgh's correspondent with American Expeditionary Force.

Ten years ago today!

What a recollection for countless boys from Pittsburgh, Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia!

That, too, was All Saints Day.

a great time for one of any creed to pray, especially if you are lying in a cold, wet field with a thousand long-distance guns belching a flaming barrage over your head as you nervously await the first gray streaks of a morn which you know will send you charging into the enemy line.

And what a strange Halloween that was for Pittsburgh boys. There they were spending a nightmare of a night on a foreign battlefield, the darkness and desolation of which defies description.

Ten years ago this morning they pounded along over the rolling fields of the Meuse-Argonne sector in pursuit of the enemy.

Little they thought they were on the last drive of the war. If not killed in battle, perhaps injury, or a year in a German prison camp—thoughts like these were more general than any pleasant dream of the joyous peal of a hundred church bells in the steeples of No-Man's Land—a riot of sound that was due to break at the end of 10 days.

Brett's 6,000 doughboys, largely recruited from the Pittsburgh district, with other units of the Eightieth Division, held an important place in that line of troops, a line that included the Marines and other crack troops of the A. E. F., and nobody was farther advanced in that line than the Eightieth.

The drive that opened 10 years ago this morning was the third phase of the historic offensive having its inception in the Argonne on September 26. The Germans still had plenty of fight in them, and there were instances of resistance, from machine guns especially, that made heavy casualties among the Yankee troops, but after two days of pushing, the Americans actually had the enemy on the run.

All Saints Day and All Souls Day, falling on a Friday and Saturday in 1918, saw the almost endless waves of infantry sweeping over the rolling countryside in the general direction of Sedan, famed city of the War of 1870.

Brett's Boys, including the lamented General in person, were high spots in that advance. The Three Nineteenth Infantry encountered less opposition than the Three Twentieth, but both eventually reached their objectives, and after a brief respite on the succeeding Sunday they pushed on for another dozen kilometers before they were stopped—by orders. Their days of war were ended, but they did not know it.

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE:
GO LIGHT ON LAXATIVES!

Everyone needs a laxative AT TIMES. But there's no need for making it a HABIT. If you have the habit, you can be rid of it in thirty days. Or less! And this is how:

The next time you go to take any strong cathartic—don't. Instead, take a little cascara. That's not a vicious drug, but the bark of a tree. The laxative made with cascara couldn't harm a child. It is, in fact, the one cathartic many physicians will approve for children. Gentle as it is, cascarizing is just as thorough in cleansing the colon as the more powerful purges that actually sap a person's strength.

Proof that there's no habit from cascara begins the very day after taking. Instead of being clogged worse than ever, the bowels are more inclined to move OF THEIR OWN ACCORD. You may have to take cascara several times to establish regularity. But the times you need this gentle stimulus grow farther apart. And you NEVER find you must increase the amount.

Cascara's ideal form is the candy Cascaret that pleases any palate, and you'll find them at the first drug store you ask.

M'GOVERN'S EYE ON WATCHERS

Seeking to stop wholesale issues of blank watchers' certificates for the election next week, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern addressed a communication to the commissioners enjoining them from using the facsimile of his name if the certificates are issued blank. McGovern said that to issue blank certificates is an election fraud and the law provides for the listing of the names of watchers to whom certificates are to be issued. Although the law permits but three party watchers to a district, in recent elections thousands of blank certificates were used, he said.

Dynamite Cap on Track Jolts Train

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 1.—Glass was blown out of the windows of the caboose of a Baltimore and Ohio coal train, a wheel was split and E. J. McIntire, Dover, suffered injuries to his back last night when a wheel of the caboose exploded a dynamite cartridge placed in the switch frog at the Staffstead coal mine at Wainwright. Sheriff Abe Laird found shredded paper of the bomb on the scene. Officials have not determined whether the explosion was a Halloween prank or done maliciously.

Rheumatic Pains Go Quickly

A New Preparation Has Been Discovered Which Affords Remarkable and Immediate Relief From Pain in Cases of Rheumatism, Neuritis and Swollen Painful Joints.

German chemistry that has given to the world the boon of Aspirin for the relief of headache pain, and Novocaine for painless dentistry, has now come forward with another scientific discovery that promises to make rheumatic pain a thing of the past for thousands who have suffered terrible tortures.

Even in the most advanced and stubborn cases the use of this remarkable preparation has shown astonishing improvement at once in many cases. Tired muscles regain life, creaking joints with the pain all gone become supple and the annoying twinges cease. In any cases where results are not secured with the first package the treatment costs you nothing.

Rheumatism, in many cases, is due to internal abscesses, such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth, bad tonsils, or constipation, which gives off poisons. These poisons are carried by the blood to the muscles and joints, and this new preparation is designed to neutralize these pain-causing poisons, just as milk of magnesia or bicarbonate of soda neutralizes acids.

So astonishing have been the results from the use of this preparation that all who suffer from rheumatic pains should take advantage of this liberal offer. Unless you get relief from the very first treatment May's will refund your money. It is called Rheumesia, and the regular $2.50 package may be had at all May's Drug Stores at the special introductory price of $1.89.

Our Daily Short Story

"Trespassing"

By ELSIE KUMMER.

WHEN Leah Carlton awoke that morning, the sun was shining happily. The whole world seemed to be awakening after the tiresome monotony of three days' rain. She looked across at her husband, slumbering peacefully and studied him for a moment; his shaggy crest of black hair, his firm jaw. After eight years of life together, they were even dearer to each other than in those happy courtship days.

Soon the tantalizing odor of coffee, toast and bacon pervaded the rooms. As Leah slipped into her seat she gaily flipped open a bright yellow napkin, and began to read her mail. Just then Alan appeared, and came over for his customary kiss before meals.

"Isn't this a beautiful day? How about my joining you for lunch, Alan?"

At first, Alan frowned, just as he always did when Leah suggested a day in town, for this never failed to provoke her.

"There you go again," she complained.

"Don't be cross, Honey. Shall we meet at the usual place?" Then seeing the letters, asked, "What's the news?"

"They look like ads to me," Leah replied, smiling. "Oh, here's one from Betty Whitly."

Leah's eyes were soon skimming rapidly over the page, and Alan looked up from his coffee, to see her eagerness giving place to dismay. "Oh, Alan, Betty has been stopping in the city, and is longing for a few quiet days with us. Do you think we could manage it?"

Alan groaned. "What would we do with her here?" but after glancing at his wife's disappointed countenance, felt ashamed, and agreed, "Go right ahead, Honey."

Leah's first impression of her guest that evening was startling. Betty was so changed as to be hardly recognizable. The chum of college days had been tall and slim, with ashy blonde hair that always looked as if it were about to tumble down; her dull blue eyes were encased in thick-rimmed glasses, and her whole outlook on life had been a meek one. Tonight, however, Betty was a vision of loveliness.

"What have you been doing in town so long? Why didn't you come out sooner?" Leah asked at last, watching Betty flush at her admiring comments.

"That's a long story, Leah. I wanted the transformation to be complete. I suppose I would have gone on being dowdy all my life if it hadn't been for Gerry."

"Gerry?"

"Gerald Colman. Don't you remember him, Leah? We liked each other tremendously, but had a quarrel. I missed him, of course, by my silly pride. When I realized everything, and made this beginning, I heard he had left town, so it is too late."

Leah and Betty had several delightfully happy days together, as old friends always do, but one evening Leah found herself amused by Betty, who maintained a tense interest in Alan, and was gay and silent by turns. Her ready wit pleased him, and her opinions on books presented a new viewpoint. Could it be possible Betty is trying her new role on Alan, reflected Leah. When later the Stuarts and Berkleys dropped in for an evening of bridge, she forced herself to laugh and talk dazedly, noting all the while Bet-

Our Daily Short Story

"Trespassing"

By ELSIE KUMMER.

ty's manner as she sat watching Alan play his clever game.

Several hours later found Betty, wrapped in a robe of rich Oriental design, in search of a smoke. Descending the stairs, she noticed a low light glowing from the pantry. The first thought was to call the others, but summoning all her courage, she tip-toed to the door to investigate. Alan was there and when her shadow fell across his vision, he laughed and exclaimed, "What, are you famished, too?"

"No," she responded, "I came down for a smoke."

"I'm on my nightly tour of marauding the ice-chest. Won't you join me in a slight repast?" he urged in mock formality.

Leah found traces of the little meal the next morning, and wondered why Alan did not reveal any more than that Betty had come down to smoke, and finding him there joined him for a smack. During the morning it loomed larger to her, until she was sick with apprehension. To be sure, Leah and Alan, like any other normal young couple, had their little quarrels. There had been times when she had fancied a coldness in his voice, but this was different. Alan had always been hers.

Soon Betty appeared, and calmly announced her departure to the city on a little errand.

"I'll go with you, Betty. My tooth had been annoying me, and I can have it cared for while you are busy. Shall we meet at the Bradmoor for tea?"

Two-thirty found Betty at Alan's office determined to see him. The wary office boy arose as she entered, and answered her inquiry for "Mr. Carlton," with a cool "Mr. Carlton is engaged at present."

"Well, I'll wait," Betty replied, and immediately regretted her decision, as Allan might be displeased. However, she was soon gazing interestedly around her, when she noticed something familiar about the set of one of the heads, just beyond the glass partition. When the head was suddenly thrown back in a deliberate gesture, she exclaimed loudly, "Why, that's Gerry," and dashed into the inner office. Gerry turned, and in an instant his arms were about her.

"Betty, what brings you here? You ran away," he accused lovingly, and then holding her off at arms' length, drew her to him again. "You're not angry with me, dear?"

"I was at first," Betty said breathlessly, her heart beating with tumultous joy.

Bewildered, Alan watched the whole procedure. Betty finally interrupted Gerry's explanations with "Leah, is waiting at the Bradmore."

Looking back, it seemed to Leah, that she could never forget the happy reassurance of that first long look into Alan's eyes as he came toward her in the awninged restaurant, followed by the flushed Betty clinging to the arm of the well-groomed stranger. In a few moments they were together in a jumble of introductions and questions and explanations. Gerry had been sent West, and had dropped in for a chat with Alan of the old college days, and there the glorious reunion had taken place.

"Yes," Betty whispered shyly, and they were to be married at once in time for that ea[rly] train.

As the train pulled out of the station, and the last goodbyes were called, Alan turned to his wife, drew a deep contented sigh, and said eloquently, "Thank God, that's over," and Leah pondered smilingly, he truly was "Her Alan."

DARROW FIRES BROADSIDE AT HOOVER

Clarence Darrow, sarcastic and ironic, spoke against Herbert Hoover in Carnegie Hall, Oakland, last night to 2,000 persons. Stinging buckshot he emptied from an anti-Republican barrel, not as the elderly Chicagoan who has gained fame as a criminal lawyer, but as a citizen who has "become disgusted with Republicanism as administered under Harding and Coolidge," and as he thinks it would be administered under Hoover.

Darrow appeared as a Smith campaign speaker, but his speech almost ignored the Democratic candidate. It was an anti-Hoover speech, not a pro-Smith paper, although Darrow made plain that he is "all for Al."

MENTIONS SMITH ONCE

In the original manuscript of his speech Darrow mentioned Smith just once, and then in the concluding paragraph:

"For eight years," he asserted, "big business has fought to get control of this country and with a Republican House and a Republican Senate bill after bill has been passed and there is only one man that's stood in the way fighting for the people and that is Al Smith. He alone has had the intelligence and the courage to prevent that. And he alone can protect the rights of the American people."

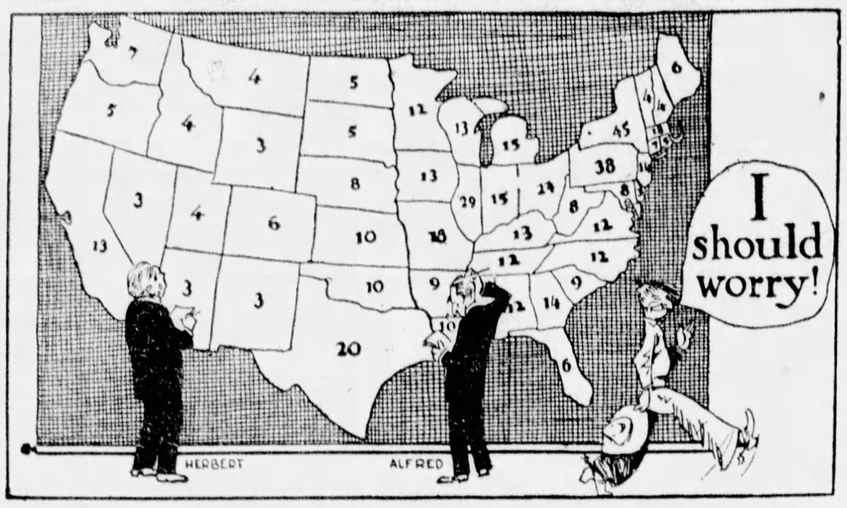
KEPT OUT OF SCANDALS—WILL



"I may be defeated next Tuesday, but if I am I can retire as a gentleman and not as a politician," declared Will Rogers today in an eleventh-hour appeal for support as the presidential candidate of the Anti-Bunk Party. In Life Magazine, where he is conducting his campaign, he says:

"Hoover and Smith both will keep on yapping right up to the minute that the boys go to cast their ballots product. And, of course, the campaign managers will keep the treasury open as long as there is a vote left unpaid for. This communication that you are reading is the last appeal to the reason and common sense of our great commonwealth before the Big Day.

"I have had none of the optimistic reports that have given such great consolation to the other candidates. It looks like New York will go just about as it always did go. Smith will be elected President of New York City and Hoover will be elected President of New York state. I may even lose the South, where ordinarily I am the strongest, but it has been a great race and the thing that has stopped our Anti-Bunk Party is that we are a hundred years ahead of times.

"In the year 2028 the acceptance speeches will read: 'I pledge myself if elected to appoint a committee to look into the condition of the farmer, to keep the tariff so that it will protect the most voters, and I absolutely pledge myself to take prohibition out of politics.'

"And the yaps will say 'he is the man I am for.'

"It's great to have been in the race and to be the only candidate that did not get mixed up in any of the scandals."

STOWAWAY WELCOMED IN GERMANY AS HERO

International News Service.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 1.—"Red" Terhune, christened "Clarence" by his folks in St. Louis, the 19-year-old soldier of fortune who stowed away on the Graf Zeppelin, saw the whole world today through a huge dollar mark. From the offers that have poured in during the past 48 hours it looks as though "Red" is going to be a millionaire or close to it before he turns his majority.

There was general clamor here to see "Red" and get his autograph and his views on various subjects—local, domestic and international. The Americans referred to him affectionately as "Red," that name suiting an adventurer better than "Clarence." "Red" did not mind it. He wore a happy grin which grew appreciably wider after a platter of ham and eggs and sausages at the Kurgarten Hotel.

FINISHED "CRASHES"

It develops that "Red" has been perfecting his "gate crashing" for some time until now he stands in a class by himself, not even approached by the well-known artist, "One-Eyed" Connolly.

"Why, it wasn't as hard to crash the Graf as it was to bust the gate at a Tunney fight," said "Red," with a deprecatory wave of his hand. "At that it wasn't a cinch, but it didn't require any Napoleon of the turnstiles to pull it."

The officers of the Graf and the Zeppelin works thought differently. They could not comprehend how the great ship, so closely guarded by a small army of watchmen and police every hour of the night and day, could be boarded by a tourist without a ticket. But, as the feat had been accomplished, they accepted it philosophically, and decided to give the little boy a big hand.

When the Graf was brought down to earth the officers slipped away with the St. Louis traveler as quietly as possible despite the clamor of the crowd for a glimpse of him. There were excited shouts in the German tongue which, being interpreted, were almost as follows:

"Hey, Johnny, give us an eye full," or "Put your John Hancock in my little autograph book," or "How about a fat job in the movies?"

The Germans called him Johnny, not yet having learned his real name or his brief appellation of "Red."

The police asked "Red" for his passport as mere formality, then released him. He was rushed to the hangar where the crowds recognized him, cheered him and surrounded him in a solid mass of humanity.

SUCH IS FAME!

"Johnny, look here," was the shout from all sides.

"Red" was taken into the hangar and began passing out autographs through the window. Meanwhile, a battery of cameras clicked.

The young stowaway, clad in a leather sweater vest, smiled at the greeting.

"The trip wasn't so bad," the youth confided to an International News Service correspondent. "They put me to work. I had to clean dishes, but what was the difference? I had to work at home back in St. Louis, too."

Asked about his immediate plans, "Red" said:

"The United States Consul will take care of me, I suppose. I guess I will be going back to America in about a week, but by boat."

Earl Carroll, the New York theatrical producer, offered $2,000 to repay Terhune's passage first class back to the United States.

Many German organizations invited the American to enter their institutions.

Albeit "Red" did not divulge plans immediately upon landing, it is believed he will accept one of the vaudeville or film offers that were received here in a steady flood the past few days. "Red" intimated strongly that his days of caddying on the golf links are over; that he will be strutting his own stuff with brassie and plus fours before many more months have elapsed.

G. S. HOWELL, 76, EDITOR, DIES

C. OF C. STARTS PLAN TO BOOST PITTSBURGH

At a Chamber of Commerce membership meeting tomorrow night a further and more detailed hearing will be given the plan of the 42 directors of the organization, which contains what the directors believe to be the urgent needs of the Pittsburgh district.

An appeal to the business and civic organizations to co-operate with the Chamber in a general program of community improvement was issued with the announcement of the plan yesterday.

Frank E. Jaynes, of Chicago, recognized as an expert on community development, will deliver an address at the meeting, in addition to a statement to be issued by Manager Arthur V. Snell, concerning the Chamber's program here. President T. P. Gaylord will preside.

Many business men yesterday confirmed the statement of the directors that Pittsburgh is suffering serious loss, both commercially and industrially, because of the entire country's lack of comprehension of the resources and advantages of Pittsburgh and its unequaled fitness for diversified industry.

Because of widespread ignorance of the city's possibilities, trade and industry which rightfully belong to Pittsburgh go to cities with much less favorable location and fewer economic advantages.

FIVE OBJECTIVES

According to the Chamber's directors the five objectives which the community must aim at, which the Chamber has adopted as its major program, are as follows:

(1) The publication of information throughout the United States concerning the true population, commerce, and industry of the Pittsburgh district as well as its attractive home life, great educational institutions, etc., in order to overcome certain false ideas in regard to Pittsburgh which are current all over the United States.

(2) An effective industrial survey of the Pittsburgh district and of the successful method of industrial expansion in other communities, so that we shall not be dependent as largely as now on our basic industries, but may secure industrial diversification. This would greatly increase employment and general prosperity.

(3) Energetic preparation for a great river commerce immediately following next year's completion of the canalization of the Ohio River. Direct exchange of commodities by water not only with the whole Mississippi Valley, but with Central and South America is made possible provided adequate docks and terminal facilities are built.

(4) A study to be made by the Chamber and other interested bodies of the various forms of municipal government throughout the United States with the object of ascertaining the most improved municipal government forms and methods.

(5) A ceaseless and vigorous campaign by the Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with all other agencies to make living conditions in Pittsburgh, including recreation, education, health, sanitation, safety, etc., not only equal to, but better than those in the cities with which Pittsburgh has to compete. The public is reminded by the Chamber directors that new industries go to the cities in which workmen find the best living conditions.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce who signed the Chamber's proclamation are:

L. C. Bihler, A. E. Braun, Norman F. Brown, B. J. Cassady, F. J. Chesterman, William G. Costin, Harry Dangerfield, George S. Davison, George R. Dorman, Thomas A. Dunn, William M. POLICEMAN HURT IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Private A. A. Allen, of the West Virginia State Police, was probably fatally hurt near here yesterday when thrown from his motorcycle while on road patrol duty. The accident happened when the wheels of his machine caught in a street car rail as he swerved to evade an approaching automobile. Doctors said his chances for recovery were slight. Allen, whose home is at New Martinsville, is married.

NEW 'PHONE EXCHANGE IN FRANKLIN DISTRICT

A new Bell telephone central office, to be known as "PEnhurst," will begin to function here today, it was announced by William Bradford, division manager for the company in Pittsburgh.

Establishment of the "PEnhurst" exchange has been planned as one of the major preliminary steps in connection with the prospective replacement of the existing FRanklin central office with two dial offices, he explained.

To the telephone company's subscribers in the FRanklin exchange area the establishment of the new "PEnhurst" central office will mean that the designation "PEnhurst" will be assigned to certain telephones whose numbers are now prefixed by the exchange name of "FRanklin."

The new central office will be established in the existing FRanklin central office building. Dial operation will not go into effect for some time.

Going Up!

Nightly, now, her smile is winning new hearts all over America. She is lovely Corrine Burton, whose New York home is the New Weston Hotel. Her march to fame includes a season each in "The Music Box" and "The Scandals"; and now, under Chas. Bowers' direction, she's going up in the movies!

"I don't believe in overlooking any point which may help make your presence pleasing," says Miss Burton. "Recently, I learned the method of caring for the hair, which is all the rage among New York girls, now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush every time you arrange your hair. It makes my hair so easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my scalp and hair so clean and comfortable that I don't shampoo half as often as I used to. It gives my hair such a silky, soft and lustrous appearance that friends comment on it."

Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand of hair, restores its natural color, gives it new lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragranced. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles. Lovely, gleaming hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu."

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

T OF THE DAVENPORTS EVIVES RICH MEMORIES IN ALVIN THEATER

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

Clarenc[illegible] tronic, Hoover last nig[illegible] ing bu[illegible] anti-R[illegible] elderl[illegible] famous,[illegible] citiz[illegible] wit[illegible] und[illegible] as[illegible] td[illegible]

THERE is an actor in the Alvin Theater this week, appearing with Jane Cowl in her new play, "The Jealous Moon," who is the last well-known member of one of the most distinguished families on the American stage. Harry C. Davenport, who plays Papa Louis and Pantaloon so sympathetically, is a son of Edward Loomis Davenport, one of our greatest Hamlets, and a brother of Fanny Davenport, who first made the plays of Sardou familiar to the American public.

Harry Davenport is a very genial fellow, as his father was before him. The story goes that the elder Davenport made the acquaintance of Henry Clay, the famous statesman, by dressing himself up in eccentric costume with a red wig, and scraping acquaintance on board of a Mississippi packet. Harry Davenport, besides his geniality, also has the marvelous warmth of temperament that gave the members of the Davenport family distinction on the stage.

Booth, Barrett In His Company

THE elder Davenport stood midway between the golden prime of the American drama and its Indian Summer. When he was starting out on his long and brilliant career he supported Junius Brutus Booth and Charlotte Cushman. When he was at the height of his fame, his leading men were Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett and John McCullough. John McCullough owed his first great success to an illness of Edward L. Davenport, who was to play Landry in "The Dead Heart." McCullough learned the long role in one night, and played it so well that his path to stellar glory was open.

The Hamlet of the elder Davenport caused the great Salvini, when he saw him, to cry out: "Anima! Anima!" which was Italian for "Soul! Soul!" Salvini's high estimate of Davenport was shared by Edwin Forrest, Davenport's rival and enemy. Forrest once blurted out: "They may say what they please, although Davenport and I haven't spoken for years, he is the best actor on the American stage."

Davenport was the son of a tavernkeeper in Boston, and it may be that he was first inspired to become an actor by seeing traveling players on the stage coaches that started from his father's inn. He married an English actress, Fanny Vining, and of their nine children seven went on the stage—two others died in infancy. One daughter, Blanche Maria, studied singing at Milan, and started on an operatic career as Bianca Labianche under Strakosch.

But the most renowned of the Davenport children was Fanny, born in London, opposite the British Museum, who made her first appearance on the stage in the old play of "Pizarro" as the Peruvian Boy, when her father was managing the old Howard Athenaeum in Boston.

An Actress Of Many Parts

FANNY Davenport must have acted hundreds of parts during her stage career. She played Shakespearean roles like Rosalind in "As You Like It" and Lady Macbeth. She was famous as Leah in "Leah the Forsaken" and as Lady Teazle in "The School for Scandal." But her greatest achievement was in Sardou's hectic dramas. I saw her first in "Fedora," with Robert Mantell as her leading man. That was one of the most memorable things in the American theater during the eighties. She appeared in at least four of Sardou's plays—"Fedora," "Tosca," "Cleopatra" and "Gismonda." Joan of Arc was her last role. When she died in 1898 a star fell from the firmament.

It is this brilliant and gifted family of which Harry C. Davenport is a worthy representative. He is a sterling actor and a thorough gentleman, as his father was before him. He has helped many others to achieve fame—among them Edna May—and he has had a long and honorable career himself. People who see him in "The Jealous Moon" and admire his heartfelt acting, will know that he did not learn it by accident. It runs in the family.

Night Ride Trio Takes Cab and Kids Police

The self-styled "night riding trio" stole a taxicab early today and left their trademark for the police to find when the cab was recovered several hours later in Center avenue, near Fullerton street. A card bearing the signatures of "The Wizard," "Weasel" and "Hawk," was found on the meter of the cab.

The three boarded the cab of Harry Strahl, of 17 Marion street, in Homewood, early this morning and after driving to Wilkinsburg, forced Strahl out of the machine at the point of revolvers after taking $18 from his pockets. Police searching for the machine found it abandoned in the Hill District, and the card bearing the signatures in plain sight on the meter.

The lecture followed a dinner given by the society and attended by the women's auxiliary. Archibald Weldin presided.

ORATORICAL 'SPOOKS' RISE TO HAUNT SMITH'S PARTNER

By CHARLES N. WHEELER, Noted Political Analyst.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—As the chickens come flocking home to roost in the closing hours of the national campaign there is considerable speculation among the party chiefs as to whether the LaFollette vote of 1924 has been corralled by the Smith-Robinson forces.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic candidate for vice president, seems to be having the most trouble shooing some of the old oratorical birds out of his pathway.

The parallel-column experts have been going over the dusty volumes of the Congressional Record and have discovered that one of the most severe denunciations uttered on the floor of the Senate against the elder LaFollette came from Senator Robinson.

It was at the time Senator LaFollette was accused of treason by the Wilson Democrats in the Senate and an effort was made to expel him.

At the close of the first session of the sixty-fifth Congress, October 6, 1917, as appears on page 7888 of the Congressional Record, Senator Robinson said:

"If I entertained the sentiments which the Senator from Wisconsin has expressed in this presence this morning I would not wait for the United States Senate to pass upon the question of my loyalty or disloyalty. I would seek the companionship of those whom my discussion and my sentiments are calculated to support."

Again the parallel-columnist jerks this out of page 7891 of the Congressional Record as the words of Senator Robinson:

"Now the kaiser and the Senator from Wisconsin talk about wanting no war of conquest, wanting a guarantee from the United States and our allies, that whatever the results we will neither profit by nor require Germany to make recompense, and at the same time would leave Germany to enjoy the fruits of victory if she can retain them. That may be free speech. A Senator can say it; a fool can utter it—but it is not patriotic Americanism."

Still again the columnist gets down the cannery from page 7885 of the Record, and quotes Senator Robinson, as of October 6, 1917, speaking in the Senate as follows:

"I say to you that while I cannot find language within the rule of the Senate to appropriately characterize the sentiments uttered on the floor this morning by the Senator from Wisconsin, if I entertained those sentiments I would not think I had the right to retain a seat on the floor of the United States Senate. I would apply to the kaiser for a seat in the Bundesrath."

And another jar from the dusty shelf, page 7892, quotes Senator Robinson thusly:

"If you know anything, if you have studied history like the Senator from Wisconsin, who bears a French name, however pro-German his sympathies and teachings may seem to us, you ought to rise in pride at the name of France."

It develops in the wind-up of the battle that these utterances of Senator Robinson have been circulated quite generally among the LaFollette forces in the wake of the vice presidential candidate's addresses throughout the farm territory and labor circles.

If Senator Robinson were alone in this category of those who face the parallel-columnist now, his strictures on the elder LaFollette, the field workers seem to think, might be of greater importance as affecting the LaFollette folks.

But virtually all the leaders on both sides of the fence find themselves in some difficulty with the old record. They have pulled the parallel on Senator Borah, one of the severest critics of Mr. Hoover in the old days and now his loyal supporter and foremost exhorter, on Gov. Smith for his remarks on the farm situation a couple of years ago; on Charles Evans Hughes for the nice things he used to say of Gov. Smith, and finally, on Mr. Hoover himself as set forth in the broadside from Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri.

So far as reliable information goes there is nothing on which to base a guess even as to whether the Robinson criticism of LaFollette during the war period has had any appreciable effect on the present LaFollette lineup.

So far as the leaders go apparently it has not touched them, for most of them are out on the firing line for Gov. Smith and Senator Robinson, and fully understanding that if the Democratic ticket should win and anything should happen to the new President, in the course of natural action, Senator Robinson would become President of the United States.

If the old LaFollette vote does swing practically solidly to Gov. Smith it will be a very important item in calculating the final results in not only some of the agrarian states, but in the industrial East.

The elder LaFollette ran both as a Progressive and as a Socialist. In New York state he polled 198,783 votes as the Socialist candidate. In Greater New York alone he got nearly as many votes as the Socialist candidate as he did on the Progressive ticket.

The LaFollette vote in the nation, both Progressive and Socialist, was 4,822,856.

It is for this vote that the Raskob forces have made their biggest bid, both in the large cities and in the agricultural states where the farmer insurrection is most pronounced.

In Chicago proper the LaFollette vote of 1924 was 170,671 and in Cook county 195,896.

It is for the purpose of swinging this big block to Gov. Smith, if possible, that the Democratic managers are bringing Senator John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, for the stellar appeal on the West Side.

Reports from the farm country are that this vote is not going in a body to Gov. Smith, but in the larger cities, Chicago and New York for example, the canvasses indicate that a decided majority of this block will vote for the Democratic candidates.

"RED" BOAST MAY COST BARBER HIS CITIZENSHIP

INTERCEPTED LETTER SHOWS HIS OATH FALSE

A letter alleged to have been written by John Tapolcsayi, of Herminie, a barber, to his brother in Hungary, in which he declared that he had been a "pure, red, Communist" for eight years, and "will be until my last breath," was introduced in evidence at a hearing before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, in an action brought by the naturalization authorities seeking to cancel Tapolcsayi's American citizenship.

On the stand today, Tapolcsayi said he was a member of the Workers' Communist Party and he promised that if ever his constituents rule the country the capitalists will have to work in the mines and the mills, "just as the workingmen do."

The case has been pending several years. Tapolcsayi was naturalized December 20, 1920, and the letter was dated October 17, 1921. It never reached its destination, as it was intercepted by the Hungarian government and reported to the United States naturalization officials. The letter was read in court.

The government, represented by Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, contended that Tapolcsayi, in taking allegiance to the United States, concealed the fact that he was a member of the Communist Party. Tapolcsayi was said to have been treasurer of the Rankin local in 1919.

Henry J. Lenon, a former special agent of the Department of Justice in Pittsburgh, who for many years specialized in investigations of radical activities for the government, was a witness. Testifying as an expert he said the Communist Party of America was connected with the Third Internationale of Moscow, whose object, it is alleged, is to overthrow all governments except in Russia. The defendant is represented by Attorney I. E. Ferguson, of Chicago. The hearing will resume today.

50,000,000 TO HEAR RADIO RETURN OF TUESDAY VOTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(INS.)—Through a chain of 65 stations, the largest radio network ever attempted, the returns of the general election will be broadcast to the world next Tuesday night.

Compared with the broadcast of election results in 1920, when returns were broadcast to probably 50 owners of receiving sets in America by Station KDKA at Pittsburgh, officials of the National Broadcasting Company estimated today that at least 50,000,000 persons will receive election returns through the giant hook up.

Whereas 50 radio receiving sets were in operation at the time President Harding defeated James Cox, there are more than 10,000,000 receiving sets in use today.

Special wires will transmit election returns as they are assembled by International News Service to the broadcasting company here Tuesday night. As quickly as received, the returns will be transmitted to the radio audience. The broadcasting of returns will start at 7 p. m. (E. S. T.) and continue indefinitely.

TO BROADCAST ABROAD

Extensive preparations have been made by International News Service for fast and accurate assembling of returns Tuesday night. Augmenting the returns, analysis of the returns will be provided by political experts of International News Service. The analysis of these writers will be made available to the radio audience.

In addition to the chain of 65 stations in this country, plans were announced today to broadcast the election returns through three stations on short wave lengths to all countries of the world.

In England, Germany, Australia and several countries of South America the returns will be broadcast.

For five minutes each hour the radio network in this country will be broken to allow the individual stations to broadcast state, county and local returns.

BOROUGHS BACK METRO PLAN

Sentiment in the boroughs and townships of Allegheny county in favor of the Metropolitan plan was indicated yesterday by an announcement from the offices of the Metropolitan Plan Commission that the executive committee of the League of Boroughs and Townships of Allegheny county, an organization formed seventeen years ago to resist annexation to Pittsburgh, had met in the offices of S. A. Taylor of Wilkinsburg, and not only indorsed the plan but called upon the people throughout Allegheny County to vote for amendment No. 14 next Tuesday.

FEATURES AT WCAE

Edgar J. Kaufmann will speak in behalf of the Welfare Fund tonight at 5:30 o'clock over WCAE. The musical setting will be supplied by Irene Garrison Cramblet, soprano; Elma Sulzner, contralto, and Henrietta Rodycombe, pianist.

Forhan's Hour will be presented at 8 o'clock and at 8:30 p. m. the Hoover Sentinels will be heard.

The evening program comes to a close at 10:30 o'clock with a concert by Bernard Armstrong, organist, and Sonny Faircloth, tenor.

SHOW BOAT—WJAS

A four-act melodrama popular among theatergoers of 50 and 60 years ago is to be revived in the Hank Simmons' Show Boat broadcast at 10 o'clock over WJAS.

In addition to the play, there will be numbers by Hank Simmons' Show Boat Orchestra and novelty numbers by members of the company.

The story of the "Ticket-of-Leave Man," as the title indicates, concerns the life of a released prisoner and his struggle to regain recognition as a worthy and honest citizen.

The dramatization of this piece will be done in the old style, with pompous acting, and all the thrills experienced by our forefathers when this type of stage presentation was so popular.

MIDNIGHT PROGRAM

A Halloween party is planned for midnight tonight in the studio of KQV. The program is to be given under the auspices of the National Apple Week committee and the tri-state apple show committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. The Duquesne Light Orchestra will play and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Quartet will sing. Other artists include Ernest Rabach, Jane Gibson, Allyn Reese, Jack Simen, Mrs. S. M. Spence and "Red" Cusler.

The Flotilla Club Revue at 11:30 will precede this program.

STOTESBURY IS RECOVERING

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Edward T. Stotesbury, head of Drexel & Co. and member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., who was injured in an automobile collision in Fairmount Park, was reported today to be on the road to recovery.

Mr. Stotesbury suffered a slight concussion of the brain. He was removed from the hospital to his home.

The condition of Mrs. George Willing, Jr., also was reported as improved. Mrs. Willing, who was returning home from the opera in the Stotesbury car, suffered severe bruises and cuts.

Daughter Wins Fight for Body Of Father

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—Through a preliminary injunction, Mrs. Joseph Ceglarski, of Donora, secured and will bury the remains of her father, Frank Goralyszk, in the manner she desires. Goralyszk died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kicenski, with whom he made his home. Mr. and Mrs. Kicenski made arrangements for the funeral and burial, but these were objected to by the daughter, who instituted court proceedings to gain possession of the body. A family quarrel is said to have prompted the action.

$1,000 AD-TEST PRIZE DOUBLED BY ADVERTISER

HOME BUILDER MATCHES BIG AWARD; 6TH PERIOD ON

The sixth period of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test begins today, with fresh opportunity to win hundreds of prizes, including a grand prize of $1,000 and a first prize for the period of $100.

These prizes are to be given by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the best ads written by amateurs about the business, products and service of 39 concerns, a list of which will be found elsewhere on this page.

These prizes, it is necessary to emphasize, are given by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and not by the concerns advertised. Some of them, however, are giving special prizes on their own account.

The General Homes Corporation announces that if the ad which wins The Sun-Telegraph's $1,000 prize is written about their concern they will give the winner, in addition, a credit prize of $1,000 on the purchase price of a home in Marshall Manor, at the corner of Brighton road and Marshall avenue, Pittsburgh.

Ads for the sixth period must be in the office of The Sun-Telegraph not later than midnight Wednesday night, November 7.

To be eligible for the grand prize of $1,000 you must write at least one ad some time during the campaign about each of the 33 co-operating firms.

Here are a few of the many appreciative letters received from prize winners:

L. C. Doubleday, Washington, Pa., writes: "Your letter was received yesterday and followed by my prize this morning. To my delight I received a beautiful combination fountain pen and pencil. My work requires the use of just such an article, and I have never owned one, so you can realize how much I really appreciate it. I thank you sincerely. The reward is certainly worth the effort."

Mrs. Lydia A. Brown, Chicora, Pa., writes: "The Zain Ad-Test Writing Test is as contagious as the measles. Friends who saw my prize seized their pencils and began plying them industriously, turning out really creditable ads."

Mrs. A. E. Long, 3504 Fifth avenue, writes: "Your beautiful Richelieu pearls received. I wish to express my hearty appreciation of the gift. I will be proud to wear them in memory of the Zain Ad-Test, which has not only proved a source of education, but has afforded me a lot of fun."

Professional ad writers and newspaper employes are barred from the Zain Ad-Test. You have as good an opportunity as anyone else to win a prize. A bright idea, which may be expressed as a slogan, jingle, letter or plain statement of fact, is all you need. To get material for your ad visit the stores of the participating concerns and ask questions.

In writing an ad about the Potter Title and Mortgage Guarantee Company, Fourth avenue at Grant street, keep this thought in mind: Most homes rest on a foundation of unnumbered sacrifices. Surely when such a possession is finally won, it should be safeguaraded at every turn. Above all its title—the right to ownership—should be secure. Potter title insurance will protect you.

The United Laundries ad might well call attention to the relief that the United Laundries give housewives—relief from the drudgery of wash day. The United Laundries' suupplies and formulas are approved by the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research.

Crubro products, made by Cruikshank Brothers Company, have been popular for 50 years for their quality, rich natural flavor—and the price. So you will have no difficulty in obtaining a wealth of interesting things to say about them. The fruit jellies, which come in 10 varieties, deserve special mention. Try them and learn for yourself how good they are.

Dunlevy's pork sausage, made by the Dunlevy-Franklin Company, has a white tag on every pound. Eat some, and you will write about it with convincing enthusiasm. It is all young pork, spiced and seasoned just right. A better, more appetizing or more nourishing breakfast could not be planned for any day in the year.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

3 DEMOCRATIC RALLIES HERE

Rallies in Sharpsburg and Millvale, with speakers of national prominence addressing each, top the list of Democratic gatherings in the county this evening. Among those to speak are Dudley Field Malone, Judge Quinn O'Brien, of Chicago, and Judge Daniel Halsey, of Lynchburg, Va. As they conclude at one meeting they will be taken by automobile to the other.

Both boroughs are planning to make these gatherings the big event of the Democratic campaign in their section. The Sharpsburg rally will be preceded by a parade, which will form at Sixth and Clay streets and move from that point at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting opens immediately after the parade. The Sharpsburg meeting will be held in the high school auditorium with Burgess Walter P. Berner, of that borough, presiding.

Councilman Nicholas Rossa, of Millvale, will preside at the meeting there. It will be held in Franz Abt hall at 8 o'clock.

Greeks of Pittsburgh will be given the opportunity this evening to hear the issues of the campaign discussed in their own language when Mrs. K. Barlas, of New York, a personal friend of Gov. Smith, will address a Democratic rally at 711 Homewood avenue.

STATE POLICEMAN FREED IN RUM RUNNER'S DEATH

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—Private Bernard J. Moran, of the state police on duty here, was exonerated at an inquest into the death of Sam Pilato, of East Canonsburg, shot and fatally wounded in a gun battle when officers placed him under arrest as a rum-runner.

Pilato, in a death bed confession, denied that he had a gun, but officers accompanying Moran, testified that Pilato fired the first shots when accosted by the state trooper who was in full uniform with the lights of Pilato's car playing fully upon him and that a weapon was found beside Pilato's right hand when he was captured after crashing into a wire fence as he tried to escape by fleeing through fields.

QUAKE SHAKES EL PASO

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—El Paso buildings were shaken last night by the first earthquake felt in over five years here. The shock was felt a number of places within a radius of 30 miles in the valley.

No damage at any point was reported but the disturbance was sufficiently severe to alarm many. The shock lasted several seconds.

El Continental, Spanish language newspaper reported that a slight earthquake was felt at 9:14 p. m., Mountain time last night from Jiminez, Chihuahua to Juarez and El Paso. The tremor was of about 30 seconds duration and it was reported that at Santa Rosalia, Chihuahua, several houses collapsed.

This Penn. Girl is Happy Now

The quick, easy way those ailments of children, such as headaches, feverishness, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, etc., simply vanish with the first few doses of California Fig Syrup, is always a surprise to those who use this fine old medicine for the first time.

Weak, puny, restless and cross children never fail to pick up weight and gain strength and energy under its gentle influence. It stimulates the appetite, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally of their own accord.

A well-known Pennsylvania mother, Mrs. P. Reilly, 5258 Rodman St., Philadelphia, says: "Marguerite is rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and happy, now; but we had a lot of trouble with her. Her stomach and bowels seemed to be weak. She suffered from constipation and biliousness until she was fretful and peevish most of the time. Then we gave her some California Fig Syrup and her trouble stopped quick. We kept on giving it to her, and soon she was well and strong."

Be sure to ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name so you'll get the genuine, endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Smoothly, quietly, a car goes along a level road. Suddenly a hill is encountered. With no decrease in speed, the car sails up. Reserve Power is the thing responsible.

Reserve Power

Smoothly, uneventfully, the family protected by a discretionary trust moves over life's highway. An emergency looms ahead. The discretionary clause (which permits the use of a portion of the capital in case of pressing need) releases the reserve power required to surmount it. The trustee can meet the financial demand, just as the head of the family would have met it. Thus the trust is made, not a rigid, inflexible thing, but a true instrument of complete and permanent protection.

A few minutes talk with our trust officers will give you a better appreciation of the far-reaching advantages of such a plan.

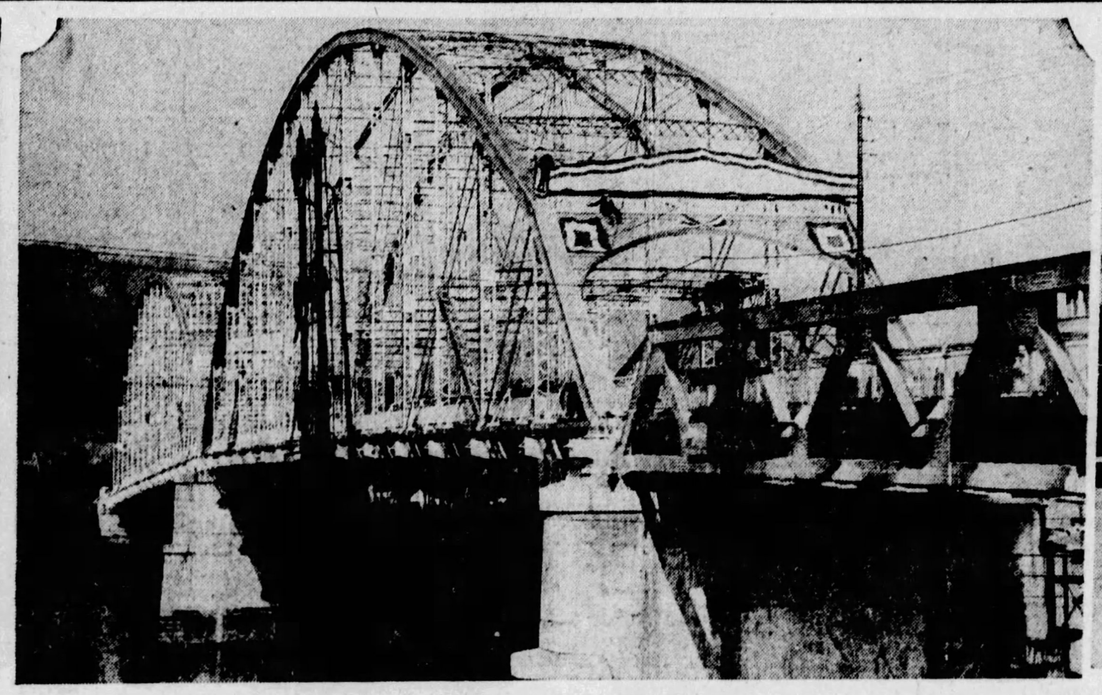
Council Orders Lang to Repair Windgap Road

Ohio River Span Opened -:- Coraopolis Uses New Bridge Today -:- Boroughs Celebrate

ARMSTRONG SPEAKS

County Commissioners' chairman, Joseph G. Armstrong, was chief speaker at exercises which formally opened Coraopilis' new bridge.



"SIXTH STREET BRIDGE"

Today Coraopolis is freed of its tottering old bridge, that which stood for so many years. This, the new one, has been "under construction" for about a year, and was formerly the Sixth Street Bridge in Pittsburgh. Engineers, when they erected the new Sixth Street Bridge, barged it down the rivers to Coraopolis, reassembling its sections.

PARADE

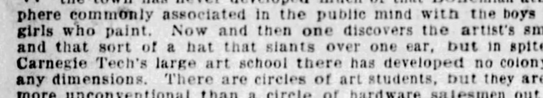
PHOTOS BY PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH.



WHILE there are many artists and art students in Pittsburgh the town has never developed much of that Bohemian atmosphere commonly associated in the public mind with the boys and girls who paint. Now and then one discovers the artist's smock and that sort of a hat that slants over one ear, but in spite of Carnegie Tech's large art school there has developed no colony of any dimensions. There are circles of art students, but they are no more unconventional than a circle of hardware salesmen out for an evening.

In making some research along this line we were hopeful of coming across a picturesque rendezvous where the budding painters, listing heavily to the left in all things, but careful inquiry develops no such nest.

IN OUR local survey we were astonished to discover that fortunes in painting come no easier than fortunes in lowlier affairs of life. Thus, for instance, an artist fortunate enough to win a place in a prominent exhibition is still far from the point where he can support a valet. In fact, some of the pictures acclaimed net no more than two or three hundred dollars. If reduced to a prosaic way of calculation the chances are the artists thus favored in an exhibition would draw his pay at a scale considerably lower than the boy who engages once a week in the semi-final number of any of the current boxing shows. On a strictly hourly basis many artists would hardly do as well as day-laborers.

Our survey naturally led to the local capital of art, the Carnegie Institute, where at present the international exhibit sponsored by our local institution is on display.

HERE, even the untutored in art find interest. The descriptions offered by men versed in the subtleties of painting are lost on the uncultured, but there is interest if for no other reason than that one is forced to contemplate what the artist was driving at in his work.

There is, for instance, a painting showing a man looking, we thought, blankly at a woman (we hope she was his wife) who sits mobile on a chair while a baby clings about her neck, a baby not especially pretty. The woman is far from attractive. The title of that picture is "Proud." Now was the artist in an ironic mood or was he telling us of the blindness of parents towards their children? But the fact that such a painting causes one to think probably is one of the reasons it appealed to the erudite gentlemen who make such selections.

JOHN O'CONNOR, who is the business manager of Carnegie Institute, and a man well-versed in art and artists, showed us around a bit.

On his desk, by the way, was a famous magazine called the "Dublin Review," a title somewhat unique considering that it is published in London and has very little to say about Ireland.

BLAZING OIL PERILS THREE HOMES

Three Emsworth homes were threatened with destruction by fire late yesterday when oil from a leaking main ignited in Lowries run, transforming the water course into a blazing stream of flame and smoke.

The flames leaped high into the air and spread to grass and trees along the bank of the stream above the trolley bridge spanning the creek. Mrs. Mary A. McAuliffee, of 138 Lowry avenue, near the scene, summoned volunteer firemen, who subdued the blaze on the hillside by spading earth and throwing it on the flames.

Other dwellings threatened were those of Hiram Baker and Thomas O'Neil. Boys are believed to have ignited the oil, which, was on the surface of the water.

FOUR DIVORCE LIBELS FILED

Married in June last year and deserted in August of the same year, fell to the lot of Harry Morrow Hopkins, 5327 Beeler street, who has filed a libel in divorce against Mary Robison Hopkins, now said to be in Erie. Hopkins charges her with desertion.

Other libels filed in Common Pleas Court follow: Margaret Weber, 1216 Braddock avenue, Swissvale, against Thomas J. Weber, cruel and barbarous treatment; Anna O'Neil, 814 Crawford street, McKeesport, desertion; Geneva Maddox, 7618 Frankstown avenue, against Lee Maddox, cruel and barbarous treatment.

COUNCIL VOTE CONNECTS SOUTH HILLS STREETS

Legislation authorizing a connection from Woodward avenue to Brookline boulevard, ordered in a councilmanic resolution, passed yesterday on motion of P. J. McArdle. McArdle explained that traffic between the two thoroughfares must pass over private property as the end of Woodward avenue is impassable. He said the condition impeded fire apparatus making a run recently.

Radio Sets Are His Weakness When Angry

For the second time within two weeks, Frank Gamiko, 33, of 315 Dowing street, was arrested. Police accuse him of wrecking radio sets of a neighbor. Several days ago he was arrested for wrecking the radio of Mike Verlitzski, of 46 Thirtieth street, with whom he had engaged in an argument. In Penn Avenue Police Court he was ordered to replace the set. He purchased a set costing $85 and yesterday afternoon lost his temper again. During the second quarrel he wrecked the new set.

COUNCIL ORDERS LANG TO REPAIR WINDGAP ROAD

Temporary repairs will begin immediately to make Windgap road between Ingram street car barns and Chartiers Bridge, McKees Rocks, passable pending the proposed permanent repaving and widening of the thoroughfare next spring.

Resenting delays which drew bitter criticism from residents who use the thoroughfare, Council yesterday passed a resolution offered by John S. Herron which requested Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, to begin repairs at once.

That action followed discussion of a report from Lang that the temporary patching would cost $7,000, but that no funds were available as the repaving money allocated to Windgap road was transferred to other accounts.

Under Herron's motion, the necessary funds will be provided from another appropriation.

The commissioners were considering the widening of a portion of Windgap road from 15 to 27 feet and offered to pay half the cost of the entire improvement if the city co-operated with county plans.

Lang stated numerous conferences were held with the result that the city and county now were in agreement and would share equally the estimated cost of approximately $150,000.

Necessary legislation will be presented to Council next Monday, but work will await the passing of winter.

Loses Argument With Traffic Policeman

Protesting to a policeman for giving a traffic tag to a friend with whom he was riding, Walter Lovett, of 158 Oakview place, Edgewood, talked himself into arrest on a disorderly conduct charge last night. Lovett was riding with W. R. Eddinger, 28, of 507 Coal street, Wilkinsburg, when Eddinger is said to have driven his machine in a reckless manner at Penn and Frankstown avenues. A policeman was issuing a tag when both protested and criticized him, the police report states. Eddinger also was arrested, charged with reckless driving.

AIDS LEGION BALL

MRS. D. M. WILSON

Mrs. Donat McMaster Wilson, 1927 Morrell street, North Side, is one of the patronesses for the ninth annual Armistice ball of North Boroughs Post No. 116, American Legion, to be held November 7 in Bellevue borough hall.

CHURCH WILL BREAK GROUND FOR SCHOOL

The breaking of the ground for the new Sunday school of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Brookline, will be held on their site at Glenarm avenue and Brookline boulevard next Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

The structure will be of an Indiana limestone, containing classrooms, auditorium and balcony with a seating capacity of 3,500. It is estimated to cost $50,000. The present church is located at Brookline boulevard and Pioneer avenue.

The services Sunday will be in charge of the Rev. Walter E. Miesel, pahtor of the church, an address will be made by the Rev. L. O. Burry, Lutheran Church, Carnegie, former pastor of the St. Mark's church. The prayer will be delivered by the Rev. Herbert Trump, Perrysville Lutheran Church, North Side, also a former pastor of the Brookline church.

HIT BY TRUCK ASKS $50,000

Run down by a truck, dragged for more than 100 feet and injured about the body, spine and abdomen, Charles Holmgren, of Versailles township, has brought suit against Glenn Howell, trading as the Howell Motor Company, for $50,000 damages. The defendant lives in Boston, Elizabeth township.

Holmgren claims that on October 27 he was waiting to board a Pittsburgh Railways Company car at Walnut and High streets, Versailles, when a truck of the defendant came along and struck him. Attorney David S. Palkovitz, of McKeesport, represents the plaintiff.

19TH WARD ELECTION INSPECTORS NAMED

Two minority inspectorships in the Nineteenth Ward were filled by Judge James B. Drew in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday. In the Twenty-third District he appointed Mrs. Mary M Maley, 730 Wills street, to take the place of Miss Barbara Sullivan, resigned. For the Thirteenth District, Joseph McTigh, 36 Natchez street, was named to fill a vacancy.

Home Fired as He Sees Mummers On Parade

Having spent the evening in the street watching the Halloween merrymakers, Irwin Shaw and his family returned home to find their residence at 7737 Tioga street damaged by fire last night. A passing motorist saw smoke issuing from a bath room window and notified the firemen. The blaze originated from an undetermined cause in the bath room and spread to the upper floor rooms. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

HENRY L. ANGLOCH

The Brookline Board of Trade has arranged to hold a testimonial dinner in honor of Henry L. Angloch, a charter member, in the Methodist church, that community, November 12. Mr. Angloch has been in the employ of the City of Pittsburgh for 42 years and for the past 16 years has been superintendent of the Bureau of Electricity.

SISTER IS WILLED GREENTREE ESTATE

The will of Mary T. Woods, of Greentree, bequeathes her $15,000 estate in trust for life to her sister, Juliet A. Woods. At the latter's death it goes to another sister, Mrs. Lillie G. Lawson and upon her death to children of a deceased sister, Mrs. Annie W. Sutton. The Commonwealth Trust Company is named executor.

INCINERATING SITE ASKED FOR CORAOPOLIS

After many attempts to have a garbage incinerating site approved Coraopolis has at last been successful, Judge Thomas J. Ford, of Common Pleas Court, having handed down an opinion approving the site chosen in Robinson and Moon townships.

Objection was filed to the site by Robert R. Reed, whose farm is situated approximately 300 feet above the land chosen by the borough of Coraopolis. It was claimed by him that vapors and odors that would be emitted would constitute damage to his property as well as annoyance.

In his opinion Judge Ford holds that if the proposed plant is properly erected and modern methods used for disposing of the garbage there is little danger that the things complained of by Reed would come to pass. Coraopolis has a population of 7,500. An attempt was made to have the proposed garbage plant located on the Ohio River front some time ago, but this site was not approved. The borough has options on the new site in question, about six acres being situated in Moon and Robinson townships.

STEPPED ON NAIL, SUES AMUSEMENT CO.

Pete Cordillo has filed suit against the Burke Glenn Amusement Company, which has a swimming pool and park on the William [illegible] highway, for $20,000 damages for injuries which followed when he stepped on a rusty nail. Cordillo through his counsel, Walter L. Kerple, says that the nail was secured and that he did not see it. The accident happened August 1927.

BROOKLINE TRADERS TO HONOR CHARTER MEMBER

Through its board of trade, Brookline on the night of November 12 will pay tribute to Henry L. Angloch, a charter member of the board and a leader in public and civic movements in that community.

The celebration will take the form of a testimonial dinner to be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church and already a large number of reservations have been taken by residents who desire in this way to show their appreciation of what Mr. Angloch, well known as "everybody's friend," has done for that district.

Mr. Angloch has been an employe of the city for 42 years and for the last 16 years has been superintendent of the Bureau of Electricity.

J. W. Liebegott, president of the Board of Trade, will preside at the dinner, and is being assisted in the preparations by B. H. Smith, J. E. Scheffer, J. A. Cryder, J. W. Snodgrass, Jacob Hermann, R. E. Byrens, John White and J. A. Duchene.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.

Well, the promising season ends next Tuesday, and at about 8 o'clock that same night the "alibi" season opens and lasts for the next four years.

To show you what campaign promises amount to, can you remember back a few weeks ago when the promise was made on both sides that "The campaign was to be run on a high plane."

This campaign ends Tuesday. But it will take two generations to sweep up the dirt.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Ruth Questions Joan About Her Old Love Affair With Bill Martin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Eyvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Eyvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Mrs. Barstow puts herself out to be nice to Joan for her son's sake. Joan becomes hysterical when Bill visits her and offers to marry her. Mrs. Barstow invites her to spend a week-end at her cottage in the mountains.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"FOR Pete's sake, Joan, what's between you and my boy, anyway? Lord knows I'm not one to make trouble, but when it gets so he can't be civil to me, mooning over his old affair with you, and you pretending you didn't see him when you did—"

Again the gimlet eyes searched Joan's face. She read the truth in her eyes. Whatever William Martin might have been to Joan, it was over.

"Well, I wish you luck with the Barstows. Lord, the class. How many cars have they got, two or three? Chauffeur, too. The old lady inviting you on parties. That's what gets me, Johnnie. I always had to fight all the female relations!" She laughed reminiscently and there was a look of real admiration in her eye as it came back to rest on Joan.

Joan laughed, too. You couldn't really dislike anyone as honest as Ruth!

"Unless I miss my guess you'll be Mrs. Curtis Barstow, Junior," she went on confidentially. "But let me give you a tip—don't let him get on to this affair with Will'um. You know how the men are—anything goes for them, but when it comes to a wife she's got to be whiter than the driven snow. It was that way with Gillespie and me. Now I kept it from Gillespie about being married before. I let on that Callahan was my maiden name. None of his business."

Finally, Joan broke away. Shut he sound of Ruth's talking out of er ears. She splashed cold water r her face, tried to wash away feeling of uncleanliness that , and clung . . .

h's whole manner had d with Joan. She had been patronizing before, a little , as if she were conscious shadowy barrier between at would always keep rt. It was different e understand each seemed to say. "We our backs to the was still in San Francisco. Joan saw him often riding in a big car with Ruth. Curtis met him, too, at the Country Club, on the golf links, at lunch with other men. "Nice kid," he told Joan. "What can he see in that terrible fuzzy-head in your shop?"

Joan blanched. The hardness in Curtis' voice. "I suppose people wonder what you see in me . . . out of a shop, too!"

He smiled at her indulgently. "Blessed baby! Don't you know e's a gold digger, of the sudor class? But then you ldn't—you always think the t of people, don't you? Judge n all by yourself, funny little !"

e hung her head.

wasn't making fun of you, ! I love you for it. Listen, if ill make you any happier I'll llow my prejudices, and have n to dinner some night. She's ced at it often enough, and the ees. ay is all right—"

h, no—I didn't mean that—"

"Well, we'll see—"

He invited them for the next Wednesday, a dinner at the St. Francis, and dancing . . . the St. Francis . . . the place she had gone with Ruth and Bill. . . .

For a moment she thought of inventing an excuse, and not going. "But that's so cowardly," she thought—"I'll go—I'll see it through—"

Ruth was wildly elated. "This is better n' better. What I call luck. Usually when you get somebody with money enough to pay the bill they're too old to dance without danger of dropping dead in their tracks, and too dyspeptic to eat anything but bran muffins and cambric tea—ugh!"

She laughed, and showed all her perfect white teeth. "Will we set 'em back something this night? I'll say we will. What are you going to wear? The white velvet. Well, you look like a million in it. No wonder, Francine's best model. You've sure got the luck, living with madame's mother, in so strong you can't get fired, and that good looking Barstow crazy about you. . . . We'll all meet at the hotel. . . . I have to buy some new slippers. Did I tell you Rollo gave me six pairs of silk stockings yesterday? French chiffon, $6.50 a pair. . . . Say, don't Curtis ever give you anything but flowers? Just drop him a hint once in a while . . . good night, you're slow—"

Joan went home to dress.

There was the taste of ashes, bitter ashes, in her mouth.

CHAPTER XX.

CURTIS blinked when he had his first sight of Ruth, waiting with Rollo in the lobby of the big hotel.

She floated toward them. Rollo, sparkling with reflected glory, bringing up the rear. A royal barge, trailing a slight, black dory. The fur coat that the late Gillespie had given her, the close fitting silver gown, shining with a faint blue light, the rhinestone head band, the eight or nine bracelets, she had them all on, every one.

"Now that we're all here—let's eat!" Rollo suggested, forgetting that he wasn't the host.

He beamed at Joan through the thick glasses that lent vision to his near-sighted eyes. "Looking beautiful as ever. In fac'—in fact—" Five whiskys and sodas on an empty stomach had left him a little less about consonants—"I don't know when I've seen you more beautiful. Let's drink the same toast we drank last time we all got drunk together—Beautiful women—ow!—who kicked me?"

"Nobody kicked you. You're drunk!" Ruth cried angrily. "You do make me tired—always tanking up before the party starts—"

"Somebody certainly did kick me. Come to think of it, it was you. Recognize the rhinestones in your heel—been kicked before—ha!"

Curtis' hand found Joan's under the tablecloth. He covered it with his, protectingly. "You mustn't mind them," that steady, kindly touch meant, "I'll take care of you—"

But Joan could not meet his gaze. She knew why Ruth had kicked Rollo. Warning him to be quiet. Not to speak of Bill—

"I was about to say, when I was stepped on," Rollo continued with dignity, "that I would propose the same toast—the same toast—"

"The same toast that you did on the night Bill and Ruth and you and I had dinner here together," Joan said clearly. And all of a sudden she felt better. Why shouldn't Curtis know about that? What was wrong? And she wouldn't share secrets with Ruth, Ruth with her diamond bracelets and fur coats. . . .

"Exac'ly," Rollo beamed. "Just what I was going to say. Now what was the toast—"

Ruth leaned back in her chair and looked at Joan long and searchingly, the thin penciled line of her brows faintly arched into a question—"Why—why—"

Curtis was ordering the dinner, an elaborate, carefully chosen dinner that impressed the waiter and Ruth. He esked, "Who is Bill, Joan?"

"A school friend of mine.... Rollo knows him too.....that's how Ruth met him.....and I came here to dinner with them—"

There—it was out. She'd told him. They went on dancing. Joan felt strangely light, like a balloon. Happy, too awfully happy. Except for the little heavy place in her heart, that would always hurt ...always...

"When did you come here with them?"

"One night—when you were in the North."

"I wouldn't do it again. They're not your kind, Joan. And let's break this up as early as we decently can. I should have had more sense than to ask them. Fuzzy-head is too terrible. Lord—I suppose I have to dance with it too—pity me!"

They laughed. The music flowed over them, lifting them into its warm, pulsing cadence. The lights faded, turned amber and rosy and dim. The other dancers were shadows, only they were real again, alone in a crowed room.

"Love me?" he smiled.

"Sort of!"

He laughed again, gently, confidently. "Damn—the music's stopped!"

She was laughing too, happily, so glad of Curtis' love....so glad ...Maisie and Curtis...so different, so alike... both loving her, and she loving them...

In the dressing room, being helped into their coats by a sleepy maid, Ruth turned to Joan with a curious expression in her round, bright eyes. "Why—why in the devil did you have to drag in Will'um—or Bill—as you call him? Rollo did pull an awful boner, but Curtis would never have noticed it if you hadn't made it worse. Now you're in for it—"

"I don't see why—"

Ruth was elaborately rouging her lips. She watched Joan from the mirror.

"It's no crime to go to dinner with you and Rollo and Bill, is it? It was nice of you to try to help, Ruth, but heavens—it doesn't matter—"

Ruth's lipstick was held in mid air for a moment. Then she dropped it into her vanity case, and sharply clicked it shut.

"Oh, all right," she said, "if you feel that way about it."

I KNOW little or nothing about my ancestors.

I only know that I am profoundly grateful to each and every one of them, no matter how humble or full of faults, who made it possible for me to be alive today, enjoying the sunshine and the rain.

One ancestor, I am quite sure, must have been a town crier. For when I see anything like the Graf Zeppelin floating across the sky, I feel it is my duty to start dashing up and down the street shouting to everyone to look up, too.

But perhaps I assume too much in suggesting town crier. He may have been a humbler, happier soul, who marched with a sandwich board on his back, or scattered hand bills!

Safety first—guard THE DANGER LINE

THOUSANDS suffer needlessly from tooth decay, from gum infections and from the dangerous illnesses these conditions bring about.

The reason is that merely brushing the teeth is not enough. For acids, the most dangerous cause of tooth decay and gum irritations, form in the crevices at The Danger Line, where no tooth-brush can reach.

Squibb's Dental Cream brings protection. It contains more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—enough to neutralize the acids at The Danger Line and elsewhere. Whenever you use Squibb's, tiny particles of Milk of Magnesia are forced into every pit and crevice where acids form. There they remain to safeguard your teeth and gums afterwards. On sale at all druggists—40c a large tube.

STATE CHIEFS FIGHT AGAINST AMENDMENTS

Led by Governor Fisher and the two fiscal officers of the Commonwealth—State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis and Auditor General Edward Martin—business organizations and civic groups throughout the State are marshaling a formidable opposition to the five proposed amendments to the Pennsylvania Constitution that are to be voted upon next Tuesday, which would saddle an additional bond indebtedness of $138,000,000 upon the taxpayers.

The opposition is based upon the demonstrated ability of the State to finance these purposes out of current funds.

One of the most effective arguments against the proposed loans is that advanced by the State Treasurer, who sets forth that out of each $100 borrowed, only $62 would go to the projects themselves, the balance going to the sinking fund and interest charges. The State Treasurer clearly points out that it would cost the taxpayers 85½ millions of dollars to borrow the $138,000,000.

The five amendments which involve incerasing the State's indebtedness, and against which such vigorous opposition has arisen are:

Bond issue for highways	$50,000,000
Bond issue for welfare institutions	50,000,000
Forestry bond issue	25,000,000
Bond issue for State College	8,000,000
Bond issue for armories	5,000,000

Most of the business groups, however, are indorsing other amendments which will appear upon the ballot as Nos. 6, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, and 14.

OHIO PEDDLERS ARRESTED

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 1.—State highway patrolmen have arrested drivers of seven trucks coming from Ohio for the sale of commodities and charged them with operating in Pennsylvania with a non-residence license.

MADE WONDERFUL CHANGE IN HER

Says Well-Known Pittsburgh Lady, After Ten Herbs Ended Health Troubles.

"I am surprised at the wonderful improvement in my condition, since using Ten Herbs," was the recent statement of Mrs. Nettie Cummings, 1406 Creighton Way, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine to crowds of men and women.

MRS. NETTIE CUMMINGS

"Indigestion was the cause of most of my trouble," continued Mrs. Cummings, who is well known in the North Side, where she has lived for 35 years. "If I ate meat, it caused me to have a terrible bloated feeling, and I could not eat potatoes or cabbage at all. In fact, I had to be very careful of my diet, or I would be in misery. There were times when everything would turn black and I would get so dizzy I would almost fall over. Constipation troubled me so that I had to take physics regularly. I was so nervous I could not sleep well at night and when morning came I disliked to arise.

"A friend told me how splendid Ten Herbs was and encouraged me to try it. The results were surprising—just a few bottles and I felt like new. I am free of indigestion, and can eat anything without any bad after effects. My appetite has improved greatly. Those terrible dizzy spells and blurring of the eyes are gone. I am relieved of constipation and do not have to take any more physics. My nerves are much stronger. I sleep well through the night and in the morning feel rested. I feel much stronger and better in general. Ten Herbs has done me so much good that I am glad to endorse your medicine to the public, so that others may be helped."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Affairs for Debutantes Crowd Calendar of Social World

FROM sheer force of numbers, the debutante parties seem to absorb most of our attention these days, but in the rush of these affairs we mustn't forget that there are other matters of quite equal importance, socially. Yesterday, for instance, besides Rebecca Follansbee's coming out party, the debutante luncheon which Priscilla Barnes gave in her home, and the costume party given last night by the William C. Robinsons for Margaret Holdship, there was Cora McClay's wedding.

And now I hear of still another event of importance which is distinctly non-debutante. It is a tea which Mrs. Allen W. McEldowney, of Westminster place, and her two daughters, Mrs. Howard K. Walter, of Wilkins avenue, and Jane McEldowney, will give on Tuesday afternoon, November 13, for the new Mrs. William McConway McEldowney. The party will be given in the Twentieth Century Club, I understand.

You remember, of course, that the junior Mrs. McEldowney was Hazelhurst Plant McCaw, of New York, before she was married on October 6 to the son of the A. W. McEldowneys. She and her husband have been back from their wedding trip for about a week now, and are living in Beeler street.

THE McClay wedding yesterday was a very small one, the only witnesses being members of the two families and a few close friends. Cora is a daughter of the Samuel McClays, of Devon road, you know, and she married Stanley Yonce, son of Mrs. Mary L. Yonce, of Duluth. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer by Bishop Alexander Mann, and afterwards there was a reception and dinner at the house.

Cora, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of ivory Callot satin made with a draped skirt and long tight sleeves of rose point lace. A full court train of satin fell from her shoulders, and her tulle veil was arranged in cap effect. She carried bouvardia, lavender orchids and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. Murray Smith, of Dayton, O., was matron of honor. Her frock was of turquoise cell moire made with a tight-fitting bodice and a flared skirt, made short in front and long in back, faced with canari moire. From the waist-line fell streamers of the blue velvet forming a short train, and with the costume she wore a small hat of matching velvet. Her flowers were bronze chrysanthemums and yellow pompons.

Mr. Yonce's best man was Carlisle Heimbach, of Duluth, and the ushers included Murray Smith, of Dayton, and Richard Griggs, of Duluth. Little Murray Smith, Jr., was the page, wearing a white suit. In addition to the folks from out of town, whom I have mentioned, the guests here from other cities were Cora's other married sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Whittemore, of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hoag, of Los Angeles; Miss Josephine Carle, of Duluth, and Mrs. Martha Smith, of Janesville, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Yonce are going to take a trip to Europe and Northern Africa, and they expect to be at home in Duluth after the first of January.

REBECCA FOLLANSBEE'S debut tea yesterday in the Twentieth Century Club was a charming affair. Advantage had been taken of all the gorgeous colors of fall for the decorations, huge baskets of yellow chrysanthemums being used in the ballroom, and there, too, surrounded with flowers, was a crystal gazing globe.

Rebecca's mother, Mrs. John Follansbee, of Squirrel Hill avenue, was, of course, the hostess, and receiving with her and the debutante was her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Haynes Follansbee, the former Elizabeth Lewis. Rebecca wore peau de peche chiffon velvet with a small hat to match, trimmed with lace, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of silver wedding roses, sweetheart roses and sweetpeas. Mrs. Follansbee's gown was of purple velvet, and with it she wore a matching hat and a shoulder corsage of Cattleya orchids. The junior Mrs. Follansbee appeared in green moire with a hat of green felt, and she wore a shoulder corsage of orchids and roses.

Tea was served in the dining room, the table being decorated with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, clusters of grapes and yellow candles in crystal holders.

I HEAR that a change in dates for one of the debutante parties has been made. You probably remember that Mrs. Charles Arbuthnot, Jr., was going to give a dinner on November 9 for her niece, Bettie Dunlap. Mrs. Arbuthnot has postponed the party and it will be held December 1, instead.

After a western motor trip and a stay at French Lick Springs, Mr. and Mrs. King will be at home in Sheridan road, Chicago.

The Unvoiced Appeal of Beauty and Quality and Genuineness

THE new Grogan Galleries provide setting and facilities best suited for the leisurely, thoughtful selection of gold and silver wares, watches and clocks, jewelry, gems and other precious merchandise.

Here there is no urge to buy save that unvoiced appeal of beauty and quality and genuineness. Prices are based on true worth and are comparable to those offered anywhere in the world.

The Grogan Company, with its space practically doubled, now occupies the entire ground floor with shops and offices on the second floor of the Grogan Building at Wood Street and Sixth Avenue. This gives to Pittsburgh one of the world's outstanding jewelry establishments, both in beauty of appointments and broad range of precious merchandise.

Face Powder Houbigant lends to the skin a seductive softness—a smooth, suave, flattering clearness—which endures . . . and which serves to emphasize the charm of perfect coloring.

Cleverly presented in six shades (Naturelle, Rachel, Ocre, Rosée, Ocre-Rosée, and Blanche) which blend like a modern miracle with the natural flesh tints. Face Powder Houbigant must appeal, therefore, to those women of distinction who shun the obvious and the artificial.

DIARY OF A TIN SOLDIER

Thursday, November 1st.

Last night as I sat and thought what a beautiful world this is, something happened to make it all wrong. I heard a terrible noise, and soon found that a mischievous yellow plush pup had pulled the brown cloth monkey's tail, and, as you know, something was started then. Imagine my horror to find the cloth monkey had jumped on the shelf where the toy dishes were kept, and, yes, he did, he started throwing a whole set, mind you, a whole set of dishes at that plush pup. I mentally wrung my hands (I can't really wring them for one is fastened tight to my gun) in despair, for I could never hold my little tin head again if when the store-room was opened a whole set of dishes was found broken. With tears in my eyes and sorrow in my heart I started to gather up the pieces, but to my great delight I found he had thrown a set of the unbreakable dishes, and so everything was all right and my world was beautiful again.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Stray Thoughts on Marriage

MARRIAGE is an ancient institution on which somebody is always trying to put "modern improvements." But, like Colonial furniture, while it may not be comfortable it can't be improved on.

It seems rather paradoxical that we should be sentenced to the life-term of matrimony by a clergyman—and absolved from it by a judge.

The chief cause of all the trouble in marriage is that before the wedding we look for "Perfection"—afterward for "imperfections." Most people rush into marriage blindly and then recover their sight, instead of going into it with their eyes wide open—and then closing them forever!

HELEN ROWLAND

The old-fashioned man looked upon marriage as a necessity and an obligation. The modern man regards it as an accident, a menace or an adventure.

It is not until he has tried to find happiness in everything else that he discovers that having "somebody who belongs" is the one thing that makes life worth living, work worth doing, battles worth fighting—and a man worth ANYTHING! !

Bachelors are like barges without tugs; they carry a lot of weight, but they never GET anywhere!

Kipling may have been right when he said that "He travels fastest who travels alone"—but what's the hurry? The journey is far more thrilling and beautiful when you have somebody's hand in yours and somebody beside you to enjoy the scenery with you.

A man, and even a woman, these days, can get nearly everything OUTSIDE of marriage—except companionship, a life-partner, and a permanent audience. But life without these is like playing to an empty house!

One reason why the modern man so often makes a failure of marriage is because he listens too closely to the sex-aphone song of the Lorelei Lees, and chooses a wife with his imagination instead of with his judgment.

Marriage is a partnership! And this "companionate marriage" stuff will never work out, because there can't be any partnership, or any companionship, where there are two individuals pulling in opposite directions, and working for their own selfish and separate aims.

MOCKING THE WOUNDED

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

TRULY has it been said that "they jest at scars who never felt a wound." Here's a lovely lady with the arrow of love driven deeply into her heart and Cupid mischievously watches to see the effect and find out what will happen.

To her the wound is so deep, so penetrating, that it will never, never heal. At last she knows the sad, exquisite pains of first love, and her friends, who have not yet been singled out for the love darts, laugh and tease and plague her about it.

It's so easy to tease her and jest with her, for they have never known the exquisite pain of Love. But just wait until they do, and then they'll know what it is to be jeered at and mocked and scoffed.

It never does, you know, to laugh at any one, particularly any one who is in love. For even though you have solemnly sworn to yourself that you'll never, never fall in love, you're bound to some day, and you'll fall harder than those at whom you have laughed.

So, beware! The first thing you know you'll have one of Dan's love arrows right straight through YOUR heart, and then you, too, will know the joy and thrill of love, and your heart will be as deeply scarred as hers at whom you now jeer.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, November 2.

THE stellar operations for this day point to great advancement and distinction especially for those who work in the employment or under the direction of others. It is a time for dealing with superiors or those in authority, seeking honors, favors or preferment. But care should be taken not to be too bold or impulsive lest strife and antagonism be incited. Likewise there is some hint of duplicity and subtle as well as open enmity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of advancement and promotion, with honors, favors and recognition from those in authority or employers. But they should take pains not to incite contention and strife by impetuosity or ill-guarded speech and to be on guard against enmity.

A child born on this day may be fiery, passionate and quick tempered, but may merit position and power by its own talents and enterprise as well as ambitions.

Hair Brooms

Pure long bristles, with the head set at a convenient angle for efficient sweeping, should be points looked for in buying a hair broom. The eye may be deceived, but never the hand if it is passed over the bristles. Good bristles have great spring, and if deception has been practiced by making the outside of good bristles and the center of substitutes, the palm of the hand can detect the fraud.

Corns Lift Right Off!

Hard corns, soft corns, corns between the toes and callouses lift right off! You'll laugh—it is so easy and doesn't hurt a bit!

Just drop "Freezone" on any tender, touchy corn. Instantly it stops aching; then shortly you just lift that old bothersome corn right off with your fingers. It works like a charm, every time. Seems magic.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store. Try it!

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A CONTINUATION OF LOVE'S EMBERS

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Tries to Clear the Way for Lillian's Happiness

DESPITE Harry Underwood's ability to control the muscles of his face I saw in his eyes the startled acknowledgment that I had thrust home in my query concerning his reaction to the old romance between Lillian and Robert Savarin.

"Oh, I suppose I might as well acknowledge the corn," he said. "I see red every time I think of that old lad, and he's a harmless old coot at that. But when I think of Lil getting romantic over—"

"Stop right there," I said firmly. "I can see that I have my work cut out for me in setting you right on your wife's romantic reactions. Now I don't know whether you know the things I'm going to tell you, but if you don't it's time you did, and I don't want you to say a word until I get through."

"A needless injunction," he murmured mischievously, but I ignored the gibe.

"In the first place," I began, "when Lillian was a very young girl with artistic ability and ambitions, she had no way of studying the things she so longed to learn because she had to support herself. Robert Savarin, much older than she but a talented and most attractive artist, became much interested in her and gave her the first instruction in drawing she ever received. He deeply admired her, but because of her youth he kept their association strictly upon the plane of master and pupil.

"Lillian later went to France to study. Upon her return she found that Robert Savarin had disappeared and that only intensified the romantic adoring gratitude she had felt for him. Then for several years she was the loved and admired chief figure in a group of artists, most of whom were younger than she. Dicky was the youngest of all. They all grieved when Tom Morton appeared, and swept her into marriage by his impetuous wooing. You know the rest of that part of the story as well as I."

"I know that Tom Morton was a Gaderene swine," he growled. "He wanted to marry the other dame, and the way he managed to trap Lil into giving up the kid to him would have been a hanging and quartering job if there had been any justice in the world. Lucky thing, isn't it, that the kid takes wholly after her mother. There isn't a trace of Tom Morton in her."

"Unless this secret sullen jealousy of you is an outcropping of his nature in her," I said, again feeling like a traitor to the winsome child I loved, but voicing a fear which I guessed was in Lillian's heart as well as my own.

"Can't you see," I hurried on, "that it is worry over Marion's spirit which is troubling Lillian, not regret for Robert Savarin, nor fear of her future with you? Remember that when he came back into her life after you had gone out of it, he was surrounded with a romantic halo—the great artist missing for 15 years—years which, insane over the perfidy of the woman he had loved and married after Lillian's departure for France, he had spent in his sister's secluded mountain home. He appealed to all that was romantic and material in Lillian, and his love for her was a beautiful, overpowering passion until it conflicted with his set, archaic ideas of a woman's place in the world. He was a Turk at heart. Lillian's professional career, her independence, her social life would have ceased at her marriage. And though I believe he sincerely loved Marion, yet I believe he would have resented bitterly any indication that Lillian held her child higher than she did him. And that, my friend—"

Mr. Underwood took the words from my mouth.

"That is what any man who marries Lil must expect. Don't I know that? And do you think I'm swine enough to resent it, or wish it different? No, Lady Fair, I'm perfectly content with second fiddle as long as I'm sure it's Marion playing first. But I won't be third."

"You never will be that," I told him earnestly. "And I'm going to tell you a secret which I think Lillian doesn't know herself. I am sure that she has missed you far more than she knows all these years. Yours was a wonderfully cheery comradeship, you know."

"She was wonderful," Harry Underwood said loyally. "She sure saved my life when I needed her, and I rewarded her by raising merry hell and getting out when she brought the kid home."

"You needed her then, as you do now," I said quietly. "But do you realize that Lillian needs you sorely?"

Bran muffins

This recipe makes the best you ever ate

2 tablespoons shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar together, add egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt, and baking powder. To creamed mixture add ALL-BRAN, then milk, alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins, and bake in moderate oven (370° F.) for 20 minutes. Yield: either 8 large or 12 medium size muffins. If sweet milk is used instead of sour, omit soda and use 3 teaspoons baking powder.

WAIT until you see those muffins as they come from the oven. Wonderfully light and fluffy—never soggy. And when you break one open and let a lump of butter melt in that tender texture, get ready for a taste experience such as you never had before. No other muffin ever had such a rich, nut-like flavor.

The fine thing about eating these wonderful muffins is the health they bring you. For that cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN helps supply your eliminative system with bulk and fiber that prevents constipation. So many foods in our diet—meat, eggs, milk, sugar, fats—lack this necessary roughage.

But muffins are not the only food where you can get healthful and tasty results by adding ALL-BRAN. Put it in dressings. Sprinkle it in soups. Mix it in griddle cake batter.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is equally effective for health when eaten as a cereal. Doctors recommend it. But be sure you get the genuine Kellogg's. It is 100% bran and furnishes "bulk" in generous quantities. Part-bran products, at best, can only be part-way effective. Just eat two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily (chronic cases of constipation, with every meal). Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added.

Grocers everywhere sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Use it as a cereal or in cooking and you'll free yourself from constipation. Also from the use of habit-forming cathartics. For Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works as nature works. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

How to Keep Well

Glanders—An Uncommon Disease in Man

SOMEBODY has asked for an article about "glanders." Of course I am glad to present it.

By the way, I am quite sure this is one subject we have not discussed before this time. It is really remarkable how much may be said about health and disease and not reach the end of the subject.

DR. COPELAND

Glanders is a disease more likely to be found in the horse than in man. Nodules, or swellings, found in the nose of the horse, are the chief sign of glanders in that friendly beast.

Sometimes similar nodules are found under the skin of the animal. Then it is known as "farcy." Indeed, the name most commonly given glanders is this familiar one of farcy.

Fortunately, most of the diseases of animals are not transmitted to man. But glanders is one which does attack human beings. It is comforting to learn that this rarely happens. However, contact with an animal infected with glanders, either through the material sneezed out by the horse, or directly through the broken skin of the man, may carry the infection into the tissues and blood of the victim.

If a man becomes the victim, it may attack him exactly as it does the horse. The trouble may be located in the nasal tissues, when it is true glanders. Or the nodules may appear under the skin, in the form known as farcy.

After a while the swellings break down, forming ulcers. Or there may be abscesses in the skin. Sometimes the nodules appear in the chief organs of the body.

It takes three or four days after the man has received the poison before any sign of trouble appears. Then there are swellings and redness where the infection took place.

A little later, the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed. There is marked swelling and it is not long before the tissues dissolve, forming ugly sores or ulcers. From these flows out a thick and offensive discharge.

The skin of the face and around the joints shows an eruption. This quickly breaks down into open sores. There are instances when this condition of the skin lead to the belief that the patient had smallpox.

The glands of the neck become swollen and tender. Sometimes pneumonia ends the life of the victim.

There is a chronic form of glanders which acts like a chronic cold. Ulcers form and the symptoms continue for months.

In the form where the skin is involved, the farcy type, the swellings may end in pus formation. The joints swell and become very painful. There may be symptoms of blood poisoning.

Of course a disease of this serious nature requires skilled care. The physician will let out the pus. He will apply suitable antiseptics and may recommend a vaccine.

The chronic cases are very likely to recover fully after a considerable time. The acute form is more serious.

Bear in mind what I said in the beginning that this disease in man is very uncommon. These comments, I trust, will give my correspondent and others the information they desire.

"Women applicants so often must be told"

Says an employment agency manager

Women may be offensive to others at times—without knowing it. Now, a new way* of neutralizing odor in sanitary pads prevents all such fears

WHEN this delicate subject is brought up for discussion, many women become embarrassed and self-conscious. They, too, may be offending. Now, Kotex scientists have found and patented* a method that ends all odor in sanitary pads, safely and thoroughly. No longer need this worry interfere with either business or social life.

New, non-revealing cut

A certain bulkiness associated with old-fashioned methods has been overcome, too. Each pad is rounded and tapered in such a way as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection.

You may add or remove layers of filler as needed—a thing all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Buy a box today, at any drug, dry goods or department store... 45c for a box of twelve. Supplied, also, in rest-room vending cabinets.

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pliable filler absorbs as no other substance can;

2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown;

3—Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process;

4—Adjust it to your needs; filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required;

and

5—It is easily disposed of; no unpleasant laundry.

*Kotex is the only sanitary pad that deodorizes by patented process. (Patent No. 1,670,587; granted May 22, 1928)

Panthers Prepare for Syracuse Aerial Attack

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — NOVEMBER 1, 1928 — TWENTY-THREE

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Pitt's Line to Be Severely Tested Again in Syracuse Game—Knowledge of Batters Schalk's Reason for Preferring to Stay in American League—New Hockey Rules Proposed.

PITT'S fine forwards, who sprang one of the greatest surprises of the season last Saturday by outplaying the mighty line of Carnegie Tech, will be subjected to another severe test this week-end, and unless they repeat the sensational showing they made against the Tartan, the Panthers will be in grave danger of suffering their third defeat of the campaign in as many major games.

Joe Novek.

For the Blue and Gold gridders will be facing another strong team with a heavy and powerful line when they meet the Syracuse University eleven at the Stadium two days hence. After swamping Hobart, William and Mary and Johns Hopkins, the Orange traveled to Lincoln and held Nebraska to a 7-to-6 score, and last Saturday stood off Penn State to a 6-to-6 draw.

NEXT Saturday's game here will be the third in succession played away from home by the Syracuse athletes, and the form they displayed at Lincoln and State College, under Capt. Baysinger, star quarterback, indicates that the Pittites are going to have their hands full.

Like Carnegie, the Orange has one of the heaviest and strongest lines in the country. Among the forward stars is Joe Novek, right guard. He stands 6 feet 2 inches in height, weighs 197 pounds, and though only a sophomore he has stood out in every engagement up to date.

THAT Novek has durability as well as playing class is attested by the fact that during the five games played by Syracuse thus far he has been taken out only once for a substitute, and that change was made in the Johns Hopkins game for the purpose of saving him, as the Orange was far ahead, winning by a score of 58 to 0.

Novek is the heavyweight wrestling champion of his university, and will compete for the intercollegiate title in his division this coming winter. This is the first season in which he has been eligible to try for the big honors, as he was only a freshman last winter.

ANOTHER prominent figure on the Syracuse team is a Negro lad, Chester Jackson, of Buffalo. He is 5 feet 10 inches in height, scales 167 pounds and plays right end. Though it is his sophomore year and therefore his first season on the varsity eleven, he has been coming fast. He got his first real chance when sent in as a substitute to replace Brophy, when the latter was injured, and the high order of his playing is shown by the fact that Brophy has not been able to win back his job. Jackson is being tipped as an addition to the list of Negro gridders who have won national college honors in the past, such as Pollard, of Brown, named as a halfback on Walter Camp's all-America first team in 1916; Robeson, of Rutgers, picked by Camp as an end on his first all-America eleven in 1918; Slater, of Iowa, placed on Camp's third all-America team as a tackle in 1919 and on the second team in 1921, and West, of Washington and Jefferson, who was given honorable mention by Camp among the backs of the country in 1922 and 1923.

Chester Jackson.

SYRACUSE men are predicting plenty of trouble for Mike Getto, Pitt's sensational lineman, whose work against Carnegie has not been excelled by any tackle seen in action hereabouts in a wide span of years.

As Pitt's right tackle, Getto will be playing opposite Walter Minnick, left tackle for the Orange, and the latter has been performing in such sensational style that the individual contest between him and the Jeannette boy promises to be one of the interesting features of Saturday's game. Minnick, like Getto, is a senior and is playing his third and final year of varsity football. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 190 pounds. Getto tips the beam at 195.

IT IS not surprising that Ray Schalk, former star catcher and manager of the Chicago White Sox, is reported as having expressed a preference to join the Detroit club if offered satisfactory terms rather than accept John McGraw's proposal that he become a Giant to coach the New York pitchers and catch occasionally.

The veteran, who expresses the belief that he will be able to work in at least 50 games, no doubt figures that he would be able to get better results with the Tigers than with the Giants. For ever since he went to the White Sox in 1912, all of his catching has been done in the American League. A catcher's value depends largely upon his knowledge of the strong and weak points of opposing batters, and naturally Schalk knows immeasurably more about American League hitters than he does about those in the National. He might not look so good against strange hitters.

Ray Schalk.

A PIRATE of the bygone breaks into the baseball news of the week in a dispatch from Minneapolis announcing that Mike Kelly, principal owner and manager of the Minneapolis club in the American Association, has denied a Detroit rumor that he would engage Albert (Lefty) Leifield as manager of the Millers for 1929. For more than six seasons, Leifield was the leading left-hand pitcher of the Pittsburgh club. He was obtained from Des Moines in September, 1905, and hurled for the Bucs until Memorial Day in 1912, when he was traded to the Chicago Cubs, along with Tommy Leach for Pitcher Leonard (King) Cole and Artie Hofman. YALE MAY PLAY CHICAGO IN '31

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Yale may come West for a football game with the University of Chicago in 1931.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, director of athletics at Chicago, yesterday said he would accept the contest, if offered, but that he has had no correspondence or negotiations with Yale athletic authorities. The report was started in New Haven, but Yale authorities withheld comment.

If the game is arranged, it would be the first time a Yale eleven has ever left the Atlantic seaboard.

The movement for a Chicago-Yale contest is being sponsored by the Yale Club of Chicago, Stagg said. Henry Gardner, president of the club, told alumni at a meeting yesterday he had high hopes that Yale would appear on the Chicago gridiron in 1931.

Stagg, a graduate of Yale, was a football and baseball star on old Eli teams nearly 40 years ago.

EBBETS, YARBO MATCHED

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Harry Ebbetts, hard-hitting Brooklyn middleweight, has been matched with Wilson Yarbo, of Cleveland, in the 10-round semi-windup to the Dave Shade-Rene De Vos bout at the Coliseum tomorrow night.

Georgetown Set For Battle With N.Y.U.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Georgetown's high-powered football eleven ran roughshod over New York University—in practice—here yesterday afternoon. The Hilltop combination worked out against their cub unit for more than an hour and a half and sought to perfect a defense against the New York University formations. In this they were successful. Later they employed a passing attack to score for repeated gains against the first-year men.

Some tangible evidence of just how comprehensively Georgetown has studied the Violet situation came in the appearance of 11 freshmen in blue jerseys with the names of the New York University man each represented painted in white across their chests.

Jim Mooney, the Senator's ace in the backfield, was again primed for the passing and kicking against the New Yorkers this Saturday at the Yankee Stadium. Mooney booted 60-yard spirals at will during the session, and in the scrimmage completed several flip tosses from a running position, all of which were heaved 30 yards or more.

BARNARD DENIES OWNERS' CLIQUE

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Hot stove league rumors that major league owners plan to band together in an attempt to reduce players' salaries next season have been denied by President E. S. Barnard of the American League.

"Such a move has never been contemplated," Barnard said. "Moreover, the step never will be taken for the simple reason that so many conditions enter into the size of salaries that no set rule would be practicable."

ZORILLA STOPS DEFOE

WILMINGTON, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Santiago Zorilla, flashy featherweight of Panama, scored a technical knockout over Billy De Foe, local boxer, in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout here last night. De Foe was sent to the canvas twice and on the second trip his handlers tossed in the towel.

ROY WORTERS, MILKS AND DARRAGH BARRED

By CARL W. SHATTO.

"INDEFINITELY suspended" has been written after the names of Nib Milks, Harold Darragh and Roy Worters on the roster of the Pittsburgh Pirate hockey club. This trio is without the pale today, all because they refused to put their John Hancock's on the dotted lines of new contracts. All were and still are holdouts—for more money of course.

Six o'clock last night was the deadline for all signing of contracts in the National Hockey League. The Pirate officials and the three players in question had been dickering for some time, and when, after a series of conferences yesterday, efforts to get the players to sign failed, James F. Callahan, president of the club, announced the suspensions.

NO TRADES PLANNED

There will be no trading or sale of the recalcitrant players, according to President Callahan, who stated that the officials were going to stand pat on the contracts and terms offered the players. Raises of $1,000 each were offered by the Pittsburgh bosses, it is understood.

Benny Leonard, treasurer of the club, and his brother, who acts as "Bennah's" secretary, pulled out last night for New York and will not return here until next week.

In the event that the players come to terms with the Pirates, they can be reinstated by having the league president put his official O. K. on the contracts.

RIDERS INJURED IN BIKE RACE

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Fourteen teams of cyclists peddaled dizzily around the treacherous saucer of the Broadway Armory today, well on their way toward a new world's record in six-day bicycle racing annals.

Rene Boogman, of the Holland team, lay in a hospital in a critical condition and disfigured for life as the result of a handlebar-locking accident with Pete Van Kempen. The pair crashed during a jam yesterday, and Boogman's throat was cut almost from ear to ear, requiring 60 stitches.

Van Kemper, who with Mike Rodak was leading the field at the seventy-sixth hour, was slightly injured. Only a slight margin of points separate the leaders from Debaetes and Declerck, who lost the lead last night in a continuous series of jams.

RUDY TO BOX IN GARDEN WINDUP

Young Rudy, of Charleroi, one of the most satisfactory workers to appear on local ring cards, will be given a chance to show his stuff as a main-bouter at Motor Square Garden a week from next Monday night, according to an announcement today by John Hernon, manager of the Garden.

Rudy's opponent will be selected from among Johnny Mellow, Joe Glick or Eddie (Kid) Wagner.

Another 10-round bout will make it a double windup card.

Dominick Profio, of Cecil, likely will meet Tug Phillips in a six-round special bout.

There will be no show in the Garden next Monday night.

Benny Burns, of Akron, just back from a trip to Johannesburg, South Africa, where he knocked out the lightweight champion of South Africa and the welterweight champion of Italy and defeated the South African welterweight champion, will be Cuddy DeMarco's opponent in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night. He will take the place of Johnny Hayes of Philadelphia, whose manager refused to sign at the original terms. Promoter Jim McGirr believes he has a better match now than before.

ORANGE SQUAD EN ROUTE HERE

By JESS CARVER

THE first shipment of oranges from Syracuse, N. Y., bound for Pittsburgh in three years is due to be made today. These oranges will be fed to the Pitt Panthers in the Stadium on Saturday afternoon, 11 at a time. Here's hoping the Panthers don't choke.

Dyke Beede

This, and the fact that Andrew Jasper McDonald has promised to talk to the Westminster gridders in the dressing room prior to their game with the Dukes on the Bluff this week-end, is the big football news of the day in Pittsburgh. The oranges mentioned above will be representing Syracuse University against Pitt as the two institutions renew relations after a short lapse of three seasons. Led by the sensational Harold Baysinger, the Orangemen hope to make the renewal a thing of joy to Syracuse forever.

Syracuse, under the guidance of Coach Lou Andreas, will stop off at Beaver Falls tomorrow and stay there over night, coming to the city Saturday morning and establishing headquarters at the Schenley Hotel. The Syracuse Alumni Association will have charge of the arrangements there.

Pitt Panthers underwent a long drill yesterday and have another one of fairly lengthy duration on the books for today. A defense against the vaunted Orange aerial attack has been the idea behind the daily drills this week. Coach Sutherland and his staff of assistants believe they have a capable defense ready for the Syracuse passes. They'll know for sure Saturday.

Tom Parkinson, the injured Pitt fullback, hopes to be able to sit on the sidelines today and watch the Panthers drill. He can't don a uniform this week and he'll have to be in his Sunday clothes again on Saturday. Why did he ever play in that Allegheny game?

To get back to the crack about Andy McDonald. Anyone who has ever heard Andy talk when Andy is aroused knows the force the little fire-eater is capable of putting behind his words. Andy doesn't know a lot of words, that much he will admit, but the ones he does know, he can certainly use well.

U. P.-DUKE FRAY IMPORTANT

Westminster comes here to play the Dukes in a Conference football game of much importance. The Tittans are in second place in the Conference, having won their only league tussel. Geneva leads, you know, with three wins out of the same number of attempts. Should Dyke Beede's club take the Dukes for a ride on Saturday and then be able to trim or tie Geneva two weeks later, it would mean that the Conference title would belong jointly to Geneva and Westminster. Of course, Westminster will have to dump Waynesburg too, and that will be no easy task.

Duquesne - Westminster games have always been hectic ones. Last year the locals invaded New Wil-

Speaking Of Sports

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

THE following letter is explanatory:

"Dear Sir—In your 'Speaking Of Sports' column of last Monday you gave some interesting statistics on the great record which Rockne-coached Notre Dame football teams have established against Western Conference rivals, and, while I do not wish to belittle the achievements of Mr. Rockne or his Notre Dame teams, I feel it my duty as a Big Ten man to point out that the record really is not as impressive as the figures would indicate.

"In your comment you pointed out that since 1917, when Rockne took charge at Notre Dame, the Irish have piled up 19 victories, two ties and two defeats in 23 meetings with Big Ten foes, but you failed to stress the fact that these victories were achieved at the expense of the Big Ten's weakest members.

"Of the 19 Notre Dame triumphs, 16 were scored over Purdue, Indiana and Northwestern, none of which EVER won a Western Conference championship. True, Northwestern won a half interest in the title last season, but Notre Dame did not play Northwestern in 1927. From 1917 to 1925, Northwestern, Indiana and Purdue were regarded as "easy marks" by Western Conference leaders, and never have they been regarded as particularly dangerous.

"The records of Illinois and Michigan against Indiana, Purdue and Northwestern are, I dare say, just as impressive as is that of Notre Dame, and it is

CORSAIRS SEEK NEW STRENGTH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

UNLESS he is able to put over a couple of fine trades in the interim, Donie Bush will face serious problems in all departments of his 1929 team, save the catching division.

Last February, Donie took his stars to spring training with a feeling of security. He was well satisfied with his pitchers, he had three good catchers, a highly-rated infield and a good outfield.

The pitching corps was the first to fall down. Due to illness and a run of wet weather, the sharpshooters failed to reach their normal pitching form and the resultant bad pitching made the whole team look bad throughout the whole spring training period.

It was hoped that the start of the championship season would see the pitchers in a better stride, but they continued in their wobbly manner and the club was a poor contender during the first half of the race.

SECURED HARGREAVES

Meantime the management figured that the club needed a right-hand hitting catcher. Earl Smith and Johnny Gooch were both effective against righthand pitching, but the rival clubs showed a tendency to use southpaws frequently when engaged with the Pirates. The punch that generally was in the batting position faded and a deal was made for Charlie Hargreaves, Gooch and Joe Harris taking their leave in this transaction.

Not long after Gooch departed, Oil of the Ozarks incurred the displeasure of the directors and he headed for St. Louis. That turn of events gave Donie a staff of receivers who hit from the right side.

The infield and outfield held up satisfactorily, although there was a falling off noted in Grantham's work in the closing days of the race. The slump may not have been serious, but it was strong enough to influence Bush to grab Earl Sheeley from Sacramento.

At the present writing the pitching staff is very uncertain; the infield offers a big problem and there is doubt as to the identity of the third regular outfielder. Many things, however, can happen between now and the training bell.

CHILLYSAUCE

POP WARNER stands out regardless of where he pitches his tent. The veteran teacher of the grid game will throw his Stanford stars at the University of California Saturday in Los Angeles. About 75,000 are expected to see the game. Beans Reardon probably will be among those present.

Pop has knowing expression when Western Pennsylvania gridders are discussed. He is extremely fond of his fine Native Sons, but when you mention Jimmy Davis, Tommy Holleran and a few others he registers admiration.

W. & J. STARTS EAST TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—Wash-Jeff's crippled football team is scheduled for the final practice of any consequence this afternoon before the annual game at Easton Saturday with Lafayette. Coach Kerr planned a stiff scrimmage for his line players with a dummy scrimmage for his back and a general brushing up on defense against passes.

The Presidents will leave Washington tonight on the second Eastern invasion of the year. The team will leave here at 9:30 o'clock and entrain at Pittsburgh at 12:26. The squad will not be taken direct to Easton, but will disembark from the train tomorrow morning at 10:44 at Bethlehem, where the players will be kept until late Saturday morning before going on to the scene of the conflict. Manager Theurer has made arrangements for the team to practice on Lehigh University's field tomorrow afternoon at Bethlehem.

LONE LOCAL FIGHTER WINS IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1.—Pittsburgh amateur boxers cut a sad figure last night in the inter-city amateur boxing tournament being staged here. One of the four Smoky City fighters was able to score a win, the remaining three being outpointed. Boxers from seven cities took part in the tourney.

Billy Winslow of Pittsburgh, knocked out Bill Watson, a Buffalo middleweight, in the third round. Regis Davis, Pittsburgh 118 pounder lost the verdict to Louis Disantis of Cleveland in three rounds. Danny McCabe, 145 pounds, of Pittsburgh was beaten by Felix Stanex of Buffalo in three frames and Jim Morris of New York outpointed Joe Melba of Cleveland. These lads weighed 160 pounds.

YORK AND READING ADMITTED TO LOOP

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—York and Reading high schools were admitted to district three of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association at a meeting of the members here last night. Other members in this district of the P. I. A. A. are William Penn and John Harris high schools of this city, Steelton, Gettysburg, Lebanon and Lancaster.

The annual meeting of the district three members was set tentatively for December 12 in this city.

MORRISON SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MEDALIST

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—Fred Morrison, Alhambra pro, scored 146 to win the medal in the Southern California open golf tournament. He tourned the Sunset Fields public course in 74 yesterday in the second half of the qualifying test.

Willie Hunter, the defending champion, tied with Joe Novak for second honors at 147. Harry Cooper just got in with 152.

Pitt, Dukes Ready

mington and defeated the Blue and White, 10 to 0, removing more of the white from the Westminster season and adding more blue.

Westminster has not been overly impressive this year. Tech, St. Francis, Allegheny and Grove City hold triumphs over the U. P's. Thiel was the lone team to succumb, losing last week, 7 to 0.

Coach Layden has been paying particular attention to the running attack of his machine this week. The Dukes have been depending on their aerial game to score their victories this fall and when that department of the game was thwarted by Geneva last week, they were well nigh helpless. There are some good ball toters on the Duquesne squad and it is Layden's hope that they will be able to gain ground consistently Saturday.

The Dukes are expecting a fairly good crowd and hope to take seven or eight thousand rooters away from the Pitt-Syracuse game in the Stadium.

GENEVA-GROVERS CLASH

One of the most important games in the district this week is the Geneva-Grove City fracas at Beaver Falls. If Grove City can win, and the issue is very much in doubt, Charley Berry will have a fine claim to the tri-state minor college title. Allegheny and Westminster have been defeated by the Grovers already. A win over Geneva will just about settle the issue.

This game is another classic, an engagement between traditional rivals. The Grovers have long been a thorn in the side of the Covenanters. In the years that Bo McMillan was at the helm at Beaver Falls, only once was he able to register a victory over Grove City. He turned the trick last fall, winning 13 to 7. In 1926, the powerful Covenanter machine took the Grovers too lightly and was beaten 3 to 0 in as great a football game as has ever been played in the Beaver Valley.

It reminded the fans of the epic struggle of some 10 years ago when Ernie Martsolf and Paul Jones combined to beat Fat Henry's Wash-Jeff eleven, 3 to 0. Ernie kicked a field goal from the 25-yard line late in the game for the victory. One of the Ransom boys, I think it was Brown, and McIsaacs, a fine tackle, co-starred with Martsolf and Jones in the triumph.

Tomorrow afternoon at Saltsburg, Jim Marks and Bob Mittinger and their Kiski school eleven will entertain Dick Booth and Skipper Gougler and the University of Pittsburgh freshmen team.

Carnegie Tech scouts will be busy next Saturday afternoon. Several of the Skibo sleuths will be spectators at the New York University-Georgtown game in New York City, both teams being on the Tartan schedule. Coach Bob Waddell, Capt. Harpster, John Dreshar and John Karcis will attend the game in Gotham.

Coach Al Irwin, Dutch Zelt and Red Godden will leave on the same train for Philadelphia to scout Notre Dame in its game with Penn State.

Herb McCracken, former Pitt star and now coach at Lafayette, has denied a report that he is considering an offer to coach Penn State.

The game between Carnegie Tech and Penn State Frosh, scheduled for the Tartan Bowl Saturday will begin at 11 o'clock instead of the afternoon to unable the two teams to attend the Pitt-Syracuse game at the Stadium.

BASKETBALL RULES MEETING NOV. 26

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The annual intrepretation meeting of the joint basketball rules committee at the Hotel Astor here will take place Nov. 26 instead of Nov. 9 as previously scheduled, it has been announced by Oswald Tower, editor of the official guide.

Speaking of Sports

very likely that the records of Iowa and Ohio State against these same teams are almost equally impressive. Indiana never defeated Michigan until this season, and this is the leanest year Michigan ever has experienced.

"OF the four 'customary' Big Ten grid leaders I have mentioned, Notre Dame met only Iowa and was defeated in that game.

"Nebraska is one non-Conference team that has been opposing the Big Ten's real leaders over a span of years, and it is common knowledge that Nebraska got nothing better than an even break, if that, against Conference foemen. And yet in these same years Nebraska defeated Notre Dame with such regularity that Rockne was glad to drop the Huskers from his schedule.

"The showing of Notre Dame against Nebraska will give you an idea of how Rockne would fare against the Big Ten's best.

"Very Sincerely,

"A BIG TEN MAN."

One sure way to fill up a column is to start a controversy revolving about the fortunes of the Notre Dame elevens, as may be judged from the above "rise" out of an indignant but moderate-toned Western Conference partisan. He is so decent in the framing of his mild rebuke that it is with regret that I deem it necessary to counter with the well-known retort courteous.

My answer is in the form of a question, to wit:

Whose fault is it that Notre Dame has not met the so-called BIG members of the Big Ten? Is it the fault of Notre Dame, which always has been in the market for the biggest and toughest games? I don't think so. Notre Dame merely took on what Big Ten foes it was able to inveigle into meeting it. A few years ago, the so-called Irish were invited to join the Western Conference, but they had become such a big national drawing card that they were unable to enter into any agreement that would make it necessary for them to tie themselves down to four or five Conference games a season at the sacrifice of meetings with Army and other major intersectional rivals.

And I feel certain that what Notre Dame accomplished against the Big Ten foes it has met it stood a fine chance of achieving against any group of Big Ten elevens, or any other elevens anywhere in the land. However, thanks, dear reader, for your welcome contribution to this department.

SOME other grid thoughts:

Only two teams have scored against Pitt this season and both have won over the Panthers, West Virginia, 9-6, and Carnegie Tech, 6-0. . . . Have to hand it to Navy for a low-scoring record. The Middies lost their first three games, in which they failed to score, to Davis-Elkins, 2-0; Boston College, 6-0, and Notre Dame, 7-0, and have won their last two, in which they scored only once in each, over Duke, 7-0, and over Penn, 6-0. Totals are 13 points scored against 15 by opponents and two victories against three defeats.

Grove City, with a 21-0 victory over John Carroll, which defeated Davis & Elkins, 2-0, which defeated West Virginia, which defeated Pitt and Lafayette, and also Navy, which defeated Penn, is in line to claim some sort of a championship. Figure it out yourself . . . Intersectional battles hold the limelight next Saturday. Princeton plays Ohio State at Columbus, Penn battles Chicago at Chicago, Notre Dame meets Penn State at Philadelphia, Alabama battles Wisconsin at Madison, DePauw invades West Point and Wabash meets Colgate at Hamilton . . . More than 90,000 persons are expected to see Pop Warner's Leland Stanford team clash with Southern California Saturday.

W. & J. stripped its lineup and sacrificed its pride in its 34-0 defeat by Fordham in New York last Saturday, but had to do it to have some sort of a formidable eleven available for the games to come. Lafayette will be met at Easton Saturday and Pitt here next week. The Presidents are keen to bring around their cripples for the annual classic with the Panthers in an effort to atone in a measure for defeats by Duquesne and Carnegie Tech earlier in the season. With Pitt already beaten twice and W. & J. three times, most of the usual lustre already is gone from this battle . . . Carnegie Tech, idle Saturday, will have eyes and ears only for the outcome of the game in New York in which Georgetown and New York University clash in a battle to the death between these two high-scoring elevens, each of which will be met by the Tartans, Georgetown a week later at Albany, N. Y., and New York U. two weeks afterward at Forbes Field. Tech, like both of its rivals, has not yet suffered defeat.

PITT, which battled one of the heaviest lines in the country when it hooked up with Carnegie Tech last Saturday, will be up against another mountain of flesh in its tilt with Syracuse at the Stadium next Saturday, according to Joe Coakley, of Syracuse, advance man for the Orange, who is here paving the way for their coming. The Syracuse line averages 194 pounds from tackle to tackle, according to Coakley.

Coakley sang the praises of Frank Hugo, the Syracuse trainer, whom he credited with keeping the Salt City players in the best condition they have known in years, through the simple expedient of properly taping their wrists and ankles before sending them into action in the games and practices.

"We have not had a single man injured in a game all season," Coakley said. "In the past we always had an epidemic of turned ankles and lame wrists. Hugo is such a wizard at taking precautionary measures that he is spared the trouble of dressing injuries after the battles. The way he does it is a new wrinkle in the care of athletes, and it has gone over with a bang for us."

BOBCATS LEAVE TONIGHT

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Nov. 1.—The West Virginia Wesleyan football squad will depart this evening on its trip to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Twenty-two players and four members of the official staff will make up the party to the Middie stronghold.

The Bobcats will travel by bus from Buckhannon to Clarksburg, where the 10:30 will be boarded for Washington, D. C. Arriving in the capital city at 7 a. m. Friday the Bobcat gridders will go direct to the Hotel Annapolis, where breakfast will be served. From Washington the guardians of the West Virginia hills will travel to Annapolis by electric train, arriving in the Middie city about noon. Quarters while there will be at Bancroft Hall, the usual abode for all visiting teams.

Fight Results

At Wilmington, Cal.—Santiago Zorilla won by technical knockout over Billy DeFoe, 3 rounds.

At Chicago—Young Jack Thompson won by technical knockout over Danny Gordon, 2 rounds; Owen Phelps and K. O. White drew, 8 rounds; Johnny Sherro defeated Joe Corrodo, 6 rounds.

At San Francisco—Frankie Murray knocked out Frankie Imperial, 5 rounds.

At Newark, O.—Joe Boichan defeated Tony Lupeka, 10 rounds; Tommy Milton defeated Ray Ganshaw, 6 rounds.

75,000 MAY SEE COAST CLASSIC

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Championship hopes of two of the three teams dominating the Pacific Coast Conference football this season will ride on the fortune of the game between Stanford and Southern California here on Saturday.

Seventy-five thousand persons will be in the Coliseum to see the crucial encounter. The teams played to a 13-to-13 tie last year.

The game will eliminate, save for a tie, one or the other of the great elevens as a contender for the 1928 title. Neither has been defeated, although Southern California was tied by California, the third team still possessed of a record unblemished by defeat.

CARDINALS STRONG

A second tie, however, would relegate the Trojans to a lower standing than the two Northern schools, although percentages would not reflect this. In Conference play, Stanford is the only one of the 10 teams that has not been beaten or tied.

The clash of the two teams will bring forth football strategy and style that is curiously similar. Both have shown themselves masters of deceptive football, relying upon trick plays or passing to overcome strong defenses. Neither, however, lacks in manpower. Each team has one outstanding player around whom their offensives are built.

Biff Hoffman, captain and fullback, is the "super-man" at Stanford, while practically every Trojan play has Don Williams, quarterback, as the central figure. Neither, like California, has placed main reliance upon kicking.

The teams are the products of two great schools of football. Since 1905 they have met eight times, U. S. C. winning four, Stanford three and one game, that of last year, ending in a tie. Their 1927 game left the two equal claimants with Idaho for the Conference title.

COACHES FAMOUS

Coached by two of the recognized masters of football, Glen (Pop) Warner of Stanford, and Howard Jones, U. S. C. mentor, the two teams have an incentive to win apart from the desire for coast supremacy.

Both have important intersectional games following, on the same date, December 1. Stanford plays the formidable Army eleven in New York City and Southern California takes on Notre Dame at Los Angeles, and both want to enter these contests undefeated.

MURRAY VICTOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Frankie Murray, Philadelphia bantamweight, finished the last two rounds in a spurt to win a decision over Alfredo Imperial, Filipino, in a hard-fought 10-round fight here last night.

OFFICIALS NAMED

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 1.—The officials for the St. Vincent-St. Francis football game Saturday will be Harry Robb, of Penn State, referee; Vance Booher, W. & J., umpire, and James Gallagher, Kiski, field judge. Indications are that the largest crowd that has attended a game in many years will turn out.

GUESTS AT GAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Albert B. Nixon, graduate manager of athletics at New York University, has announced that the entire Fordham football squad and coaches would be guests of the Violet team at the Georgetown game at the Yankee Stadium Saturday afternoon.

RAUHS PLAN COMEBACK

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Rumors that the Enoch Rauh Club would not be represented in professional basketball this winter were definitely set at rest last night with the announcement by Meyer Paris, star center of the uptown passers, that the Columbus Temple favorites would be back stronger than ever.

The Rauhs, as in previous years, will make Columbus Temple their home quarters, but will not play on Tuesday nights. If a first-class league is organized the Rauhs will be a member, otherwise the team will play an independent schedule that will bring it into competition with the leading professional teams in this section of the country.

Only one veteran from last year's team will be absent when the Rauhs take the floor for their opening game of the season. Lou Alman, star forward, is on the Pacific coast and will not be available for basketball this season. The Rauhs, however, have signed Moy Rubenstein, former captain and star of the Geneva College quintet, and he should fit in nicely with the Rauh machine.

Rubenstein, during his days with Geneva, was rated with the best passers in the Tri-State Conference. Several others will be signed to help make the Rauhs one of the outstanding teams in the district.

Among the old favorites in the Rauh lineup this year are Johnny Serbin, former Duquesne University star; Meyer and Wyoming Paris and Bill Miller. This team compares favorably with the best ever turned out by the Rauhs and it should go far in professional basketball this winter.

Yans Wallace, who earned fame for himself with the Pittsburgh Morrys when that team was rated the professional champion of Western Pennsylvania, will be found in a new role this winter. Wallace has been admitted to the Western Pennsylvania Basketball Officials' Association.

Wallace has had considerable experience in professional basketball circles, having played with the Morrys and Sianos as well as serving the Knickerbockers, champions of the West Penn League last winter, as coach. Wallace is one of the most prominent and popular stars connected with the winter indoor sport hereabouts and he should make a name for himself as a referee.

Wallace's admittance to the West Penn body hardly means that he has quit basketball as an active participant. The former Morrys have been signed to represent the Goldensons of the South Side and Wallace will be found in their lineup when not working as a referee.

Chick Davies will be back on the job as basketball coach at Duquesne University during the coming season. He has just signed a contract after a long delay, which prevented him from getting an early start in shaping his plans, and during which, it is said, he had under consideration an offer from West Virginia University.

The Dukes can ill afford to lose a coach of the caliber of the brilliant Chick, and it is pleasant news that he will be on the job again.

The Dukes will begin their floor season next Monday.

87 MEMBERS ADDED TO KEYSTONE CLUB

Eighty-seven new members have been received into the Keystone Athletic Club during the month of October, it was announced at the weekly meeting of the Committee of Sixteen in the William Penn hotel.

Members of the Committee of Sixteen, besides Longaburgh and Kugeman are: H. E. Jeffries, J. P. McCann, James W. Hamilton, Frank L. Stulen, W. W. Sanborn, A. W. Montgomery, Dr. Charles A. Hill, A. W. Stevenson, R. S. Garrett, Howard S. Charnell, William H. Patterson, Arthur Booth, S. V. Morgan, L. W. Depuy and Robert Dinkey.

TACKLE MADE BACK

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—In an effort to solve the problem which has arisen from injuries to regular backfield men, Woerner, who has played three years at tackle, has been shifted to the fullback post on the Bucknell eleven. He showed considerable promise in the new position and will likely be used in that capacity against Villanova this week.

Coach

LOU ANDREAS

Head coach of Syracuse University football squad, which meets Pitt in the Stadium Saturday afternoon. Lou himself is a former Syracuse star.

AMATEUR CODE TO BE REVISED

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Several radical changes in the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union will be advocated at the fortieth annual convention of that body at New York on November 18, 19 and 20.

Among the more important changes are the following:

1. A college or university athlete may elect to compete for his school or club, but not for both.

2. A swimmer who accepts a position as lifeguard thereby disqualifies himself for further competition as an amateur.

3. Disqualification of any athlete who allows his name to be used to advertise the goods or apparatus of any firm, manufacturer or agent either for compensation or otherwise.

BATTLE EXPECTED

The efforts of the Central Association of the A. A. U., with headquarters at Chicago, to have the first rule written in the A. A. U. constitution may cause a bitter controversy. The rule, if passed, would prevent any track star or swimmer from representing a club during the years he competes for his college. In other words, athletes who now have the privilege of competing for both their school and club in most sections of the country, would be allowed to compete only for their school during their college careers, as doubtless none would elect to represent a club while attending college.

Eastern and Far Western delegates undoubtedly will fight the legislation of such a rule to the last ditch. Most of the support of the proposed change will come from the Middle West where a similar rule has been in effect in the Big Ten Conference for several years. It will be recalled that Herb Schwarze, University of Wisconsin shot putter, was barred from college competition under this rule.

SCHWARZE BANNED

Schwarze was unjustly ruled out as he never actually wore an Illinois A. C. emblem, but merely trained and traveled with the I. A. C. athletes.

The passage of this rule would be a severe blow to the Eastern and California clubs which draft most of their athletes from college stars. The New York A. C., Newark A. C., Boston A. A., Los Angeles A. C. and Olympic Club track and field teams are made up almost entirely of college stars still in competition. The rule would not prevent a college athlete from representing a club after he completed his collegiate competition, but would apply only during his four years in college.

STUMPP BACK WITH WEST VA.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Eddie Stumpp, flashy sophomore field general, took an active part in the workout of the West Virginia University football squad yesterday afternoon for the first time since October 20, when he was injured. Stumpp was on the throwing end of numerous passes, his specialty, and apparently has lost none of his cunning.

"Box Car Bus" Larue also reported in tiptop condition after a layoff of a week, due to an infected toe. It begins to look as if Stumpp will be ready to start the Fordham game on election day at New York and Mountaineer stock took a corresponding jump with this announcement.

Coach Rodgers spent most of the afternoon in perfecting a defense for the Fordham passing attack, although several new plays were given the Mountaineers.

HEEPS DINE TONIGHT

The Dan Heep baseball club will hold its annual banquet this evening in the House by the Side of the Road, outside Wilkinsburg.

OHIO-PRINCETON WORTHY FOES

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.—A battle of the football giants is in prospect here Saturday when Princeton, undefeated in the East, and Ohio State, with a clean slate in the Middle West, meet in one of the season's most important intersectional games.

Princeton a year ago had one of the best elevens in the land, before which Ohio State, with a much weaker team than this fall, fell along with others. This season the Tigers have three wins and a draw to their credit, the tie being with Virginia. Cornell, Lehigh and Vermont were the victims.

Ohio State opened its campaign by swamping Wittenberg, and then took Northwestern, Michigan and Indiana into camp. Only one touchdown has been tallied against the Ohioans thus far.

To add to the picture, the game is the first invasion of the Ohio Stadium by one of the so-called Big Three, it is one of the few that Princeton has played against Big Ten teams, it is the annual Homecoming fray for Ohio State and comes as the climax to the annual national Princeton Alumni Association convention here which begins Friday. It will be the second time in two weeks, moreover, that the Ohio Stadium has been filled to capacity, a throng of close to 73,000 being expected.

Ohio State came out of the Indiana game in fairly good shape physically. Several of the regulars sustained bumps and bruises, but all of them are expected to be available if needed. Coach Bill Roper nursed his previously injured stars through the game last Saturday with Cornell, so that the Princetonians, too, expect to be able to put their best foot forward physically.

As was the case before the annual game with Michigan here two weeks ago, the Buckeyes have worked in secret all week. The secrecy was designed not to keep out prying eyes, since neither Princeton nor Ohio State have scouted each other all fall, but to afford the coaches and squad the opportunity to make the best possible use of their time.

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

of his pitching days, Leifield has been employed as coach by the St. Louis, Boston and Detroit American League clubs. He was with the Tigers this year.

LESTER PATRICK, manager of the New York Rangers, and his brother, Frank, who is preparing to open another season in his league on the Pacific Coast, probably have done more than any other two men in moulding hockey into its present form. Several of the new rules and other changes in recent years were suggested by them.

Lester is now thinking of trying to induce the National Professional Hockey League to adopt two rules that his brother is making out on the coast. One would break up the playing time into four 15-minute periods instead of three 20-minute periods as at present, with five-minute intermission between the first and second and third and four sessions, and a 10-minute rest between the second and third periods.

THE other proposed change in the regulations, as Lester explained it to Alfred Dayton, concerns foul committed just in front of the net.

Under the present rule if a man with the rubber is tripped just as he is making the shot the referee blows his whistle and the man who did the tripping is penalized. Whether the puck enters the net or not is beside the point, for the goal if made does not count.

Lester Patrick.

PATRICK would have the player get credit for the goal if he makes it, even though tripped, and Western League officials have been ordered not to sound their whistles for a foul until the play is completed. The penalty still goes, but so does the goal if it is made, which seems like sound reasoning. Under the existing conditions a defense man will often take a penalty in order to prevent a score, and the new rule is expected to eliminate such tactics.

MINOR LEAGUE STARS CLIMB

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Eighteen minor league players will advance a step by the draft route this year, according to an announcement made here by J. H. W. VA. AND W. & J. FROSH MEET SATURDAY

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 1—With only three or four of a squad of 10 good backfield men in condition, Coach Homer Martin is finding it difficult to mould a strong West Virginia University Freshman squad for the scheduled game with the Vice Presidents of Washington and Jefferson, on Mountaineer Field, Saturday. The Little Mountaineer line has been depleted slightly by injuries, but the plebe mentor is likely to have a strong forward wall to confront the Prexy yearlings.

Listed among the injured West Virginia Freshman are several star backs, including Bud Bonar, Pete Woodrum, Harry Marker, Charley Sebulskey, Vental Waggoner and Johnny Doyle. It is not likely that Marker or Waggoner will be in condition for starting duty Saturday but, on the other hand, the remainder of the backs may be ready.

FIELDS WON'T FIGHT THOMPSON IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—A match between Jackie Fields, crack California welterweight who knocked out Sammy Baker Tuesday night, and Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco, Negro, has been abandoned as a possibility for November 16 at Madison Square Garden.

Fields wired Tom McArdle, matchmaker, that he already had eliminated Thompson in a recent bout and preferred to await a shot at Joe Dundee's title, the Baltimore Italian was scheduled to oppose Thompson in a championship battle here November 16, but had to withdraw because of an infected elbow.

Miller Huggins In Florida to Golf, Fish

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Miller Huggins has arrived at his winter home here for a winter of golf and fishing.

The manager of the world's champion New York Yankees disembarked after a four-day automobile trip from New York and hastened to renew his membership in a golf club and lease a small cruiser for fishing expeditions in the gulf.

Huggins said he would cast his presidential vote in St. Petersburgh, where he maintains citizenship.

SUSPEND BASS FOR 30 DAYS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Benny Bass, featherweight boxer, has been suspended for 30 days by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission for fouling Phil McGraw, Detroit, in their fight here Monday night. Bass' purse of more than $2,000 was paid.

Bass was far in the lead when he landed a low blow in the fourth round, and the commission believed it was unintentional. It is the rule however, that a boxer guilty of a foul, unintentional or not, shall draw a suspension.

The suspension will not interfere with the Bass-Petrone fight in Wilkinsburg November 15, as a contract for the bout was signed prior to the fight with McGraw.

October 19, West Virginia meets Wash-Lee at Charleston, the following week at Oklahoma A. & M. is met at Stillwater, while Thanksgiving Day Wash-Jeff is met at Morgantown.

YOUNG JACK THOMPSON STOPS DANNY GORDON

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Young Jack Thompson, Pacific Coast Negro welterweight, was awarded a technical knockout decision over Danny Gordan of Philadelphia in the second round of their scheduled 10-round bout last night when Referee Joe Collins stopped the fight to save the Philadelphian from further punishment.

LANDIS CUTS SPOILS OF CHISOX-CUBS SERIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—(AP.)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis has used his big stick again—this time to settle a fight among the White Sox over their portion of the city series cash.

After waiting several weeks for a decision of the players as to how the money should be apportioned, Landis cut the melon yesterday, signing 27 checks for $820.84 and two for $410.42.

*WHEN we sign our name to a statement in an advertisement, we mean just that. To us, signing an advertisement is in no way different from signing a contract.

There is no double meaning, no half-truth, no false note in our statement that Chesterfield cigarettes are mild enough for anybody—and yet they satisfy.

IRENE was ruthless.

At first she could find no way to make him shake off his irritable ambitionless lethargy. Then one day she told him, in so many words—

"Bob . . . pull yourself together or I'll leave you—flat!"

Bob knew what was cutting down his efficiency; knew that poisons bottled up in the system ruined dispositions, undermined health. Yet he'd tried ordinary laxatives; slow-acting health foods—cathartics that wracked the system . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious mint chewing gum. You don't swallow it hastily, like other laxatives—you chew it!

The chewing releases Feen-a-mint's wonderful cleansing principle so gradually, so naturally that it acts with unbelievable gentleness—yet sweeps out the clogging poisons from your whole system. In 3 to 4 hours (or by morning, if you take it at bedtime) it freshens you from top to toe!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't disturb digestion. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's today.

Some Stocks Sell on Hope, Others on Real Earnings.

By B. C. FORBES

SOME stocks are selling unwarrantedly high on too-rosy hopes. Others, including several standard railway issues, are selling on a rational basis as measured by actual earnings.

Such is the carefully reasoned verdict of one student of investments whose judgment is very highly valued by those familiar with his unusual knowledge and his ripe experience.

F. J. Lisman, head of his own New York Stock Exchange firm of investment bankers, I asked Mr. Lisman to analyze the stock market, fearlessly, for readers of this column.

HERE is the gist of his pronouncements:

"'Don't be a bear on America' and 'the people who refused to back Graham Bell missed an opportunity to make millions,' probably no two slogans have been more grossly abused than these. The Germans, on the other hand, have a saying, 'God Almighty looks to it that the trees will not grow into the sky.'

"Many stocks are now selling at prices equal to from 20 to 25 times their present net earnings. This is justified by some people on the theory that, while the cash return may be only 2 per cent, and an equal amount of earnings are put back into the property, the future indicates a further increase in earning capacity—possibly an increase of 50 per cent, to even 100 per cent, in the course of the next two or three years.

"This is equivalent to saying that such a market price is admittedly too high for the present but that it discounts future prosperity several years ahead of time.

"MUCH money has been made in times past by those who guessed the future correctly, and much has been lost by those who guessed incorrectly, or who were too optimistic. An atmosphere of optimism has been developed in the security markets to such an extent that anyone who has suggested prices cannot go up forever, has been looked upon as a pessimist and as a 'bear on the future of America.' This point of view is not unusual in times of a bull market, just as extreme pessimism generally is syncronized with the lowest price level of a bear market.

"NEARLY everyone sees that his own business is pretty good. This makes him feel cheerful and induces him to spend money freely. Hence great optimism, leading him to believe that his business is going to expand indefinitely. The opposite feeling prevails during a period of depression. Another proverb which might be remembered at times is 'things are never as good nor as bad as they seem.'

"The business of the country, with the exception of a few fairly important industries, is excellent; in fact at record height. In view of the good crops with fair prices this fall, there is no indication of any serious business reaction.

"However, money is not likely to be as cheap throughout 1929 as it was in the first part of 1928, and new enterprises may be checked to some extent by dearer money. This will make itself felt to a moderate degree in the various productive industries. If building is checked, it means reduction in the output of steel, brick, cement, office and house furnishings and thousands of other things. While there appears to be no reason to look for any serious decline in business, effects of industrial concerns may decrease even if consumption should decline but slightly. If competition is steadily increasing in all lines, and if consumption decreased there is liable to be fierce battle for business, with consequential reduction of profits.

ONE of the curious features of the present market is that stocks of high-class railroad companies cannot be considered too dear. Pennsylvania Railroad, New York Central, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, American Telephone and Telegraph—all pay around 5 per cent or better, irrespective of the value of rights which these companies give from time to time.

"High class industrial stocks to which there is more imagination and less public regulation, are selling relatively higher, although undoubtedly the people who buy the better class of these stocks will in the long run see them at higher prices.

"The greatest speculation, and therefore probably the greatest undue inflation, is in shares representing hopes of mergers, hopes of increased earnings from patents or other special developments, hopes of savings in operating costs, and just hopes that reports about pool operations or manipulations will advance the market price. * * *

"QUITE likely the New York market is now so large that it will never again move in unison as formerly. There is no reason why copper stocks should go down with oil and railroad stocks or vice versa.

"The market is bound to swing more or less with the two fundamental elements—the prevailing rate of interest and general business conditions."

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 14 to 16 points on buying which appeared to be influenced by reports of cold rains in the Southwest and prospects for a cold wave. January contracts sold up to 19.45 and May to 19.29 on this initial demand, but the buying was not active and prices lost part of the advance under southern selling and realizing. January sold off to 19.34, or within 5 points of yesterday's closing quotation, and the tone was rather unsettled at the end of the first half hour, although trading was comparatively quiet. Private cables reported continental buying supplied by hedge selling and Bombay selling in a quiet market at Liverpool. Fair cloth sales were reported to India, but Shanghai auctions were less favorable.

Trading was quiet later in the morning, with fluctuations narrow and irregular. After the decline to 19.34c for January, prices rallied 6 or 7 points from the lowest on renewed covering and buying for trade account. The bulges, however, met further realizing and were not fully maintained, with the market at midday ruling 7 to 9 points net higher and within 7 or 8 points of the opening prices.

P. R. R. ELECTRIFICATION NEWS HELPS WESTINGHOUSE

EMERGES FROM PIPE-SALE SLUMP

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pittsburgh Steel Company is operating its pipe mills at capacity with a good volume of orders on the books. These insure a continuation of this rate to the end of the year.

Pig iron production is at capacity with both blast furnaces running. Steel manufacture is as close to full output as is possible. Out of 12 open-hearth furnaces, 11 are working. The remaining furnace is being repaired.

Wire sales are good, but operations in this department are not quite as great as in pipe making.

Net profit in the present quarter will be as good or better than the very satisfactory earnings shown in the three months ended September 30. In that quarter net was $905,822 or 2.85 a share on the common stock.

The present rate of earnings indicates that the net profit in the six months ending December 31, 1928, will be greater than net for the entire fiscal year ended June 30, 1928, when $1,342,141 was reported. It will be nearly as great as in the preceding fiscal year, when $1,951,957 was earned.

PITTSBURGH STEEL has emerged from the slump in its sales of pipe and is now in a position to reap the advantages of large expenditures made for plant improvements in the last three years. Steel-making capacity has been balanced with the requirements of finishing mills.

The common stock has not been on a dividend basis since early in 1927, but the increased earnings and the improved outlook for the future were responsible for a recent sale of the stock at 70.

Sales of specialty wire products have been increasing satisfactorily. Good results are being received from the sale of Steeltex, which is a wire lath with a heavy paper backing. Various grades of it can be used as a base for plastering on walls and ceilings or for cement floors.

Bettered conditions in the oil industry have given the company a greater sales outlet for seamless tubing, but the high rate of automobile production has also been a major factor. Seamless tubing is used for steering posts, drive shafts, axles and other automotive parts.

THE same conditions which contributed to improvement in Pittsburgh Steel were responsible for the record earnings of $987,416 after deducting preferred dividends reported by Spang, Chalfant & Co. for the third quarter of this year. Spang, Chalfant is also operating close to capacity with the expectation of earnings in the present quarter duplicating those of the third quarter.

In the nine months ended September, Spang's net profit was $1,712,191 after preferred dividends. This was equivalent to $1.31 a share on the common stock.

If the final three months are up to expectations Spang will show earnings of about $3.60 a share for the common stock for the year of 1928. This would be far in excess of the combined earnings of Spang, Chalfant & Co. and the Standard Seamless Tube Company in 1927. The two companies were merged early this year.

F. J. CHESTERMAN, vice president and general manager of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, has been elected a director of the Pennsylvania United States Bond and Mortgage Company. The organization, which is affiliated with the United States Bond and Mortgage Company, was organized a year ago to engage in the real estate second mortgage business here.

BUGS BAER Says

NEXT Tuesday will be a giggle of the calendarif for ne other reason than that the straw voting will be over.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

One man will be elected President.

And the other man will get all the straw.

Looking back at history through the bunghole in the barrel, we find that many great men established various opinions on the value of the straw vote as the barometer of public illusions.

This is the straw that breaks the camel's galluses. Marc Antony.

The best straw I ever smoked. The famous blindfold test.

My distinguished opponent won the straw vote. Fortunately, we are about to elect a President and not a hoss. Daniel Webster.

If straw will win the election, throw in another bale. Matt Quay.

I have watched many a straw vote, but I have yet to see an occupant of the White House in the grain and feed business. Dick Croker.

They have stuffed a straw man for the crows to gossip over. Calhoun.

Strawberries. Voltaire.

If you have got to stuff them ballot boxes, don't use straw. An old Philadelphia Philosopher.

There was only one election in which straw was an issue. That was the French Revolution. The man who told the voters to eat straw was treated to the diet himself.

The boys gave him a revolutionary hair cut, starting at the neck, and working from East to West. Then they stuffed his mouth with good old hay.

His last words were, "Hey! Hey!"

She Gets Divorce After Election Battle

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP.)—The electioneering William Lynch did in his home for his favorite presidential candidate was made the basis on which Mrs. Bertie M. Lynch won a decree of divorce yesterday.

"My husband is a Democrat and thinks that Alfred E. Smith is the best man for president," Mrs. Lynch testified. "I am a Republican and I'm for Herbert Hoover. I told my husband I thought Hoover was the best man and he got angry, grabbed me around the neck and rapped his knuckles on my head, attempting to make me take back my statement and change my vote intentions."

Declaring a wife's right to support any candidate she prefers, the judge signed the divorce decree.

Magistrates Condemned For "Licensing" Crime

The grand jury, in its presentment to court on the outrageous graft and vice situation in Pittsburgh, pays its respects to crime-licensing magistrates.

"We find," the report to the court states, "that it is the practice in the office of many magistrates to impose fines for disorderly conduct or other summary conviction in cases where the facts would sustain a charge of an indictable offense and probably result in conviction, and where the evidence does not sustain a summary conviction for the offense charged, and does establish a prima facie case of an indictable offense. This practice is without warrant in law and should be stopped."

On the same subject, the grand jury condemns the destruction of evidence in indictable cases disposed of in magistrates' courts by imposing a fine, when they should have been held for court, and the evidence turned over to the office of the district attorney.

It comments significantly that the explanation given in some such cases of disposal of evidence is "so weak and vague that it might warrant the conclusion that the evidence was returned to the defendant."

This matter likely will receive the attention of the court at the proper time. Meanwhile police court magistrates should reflect on the fact that they are assuming a heavy responsibility in making fines a punishment for serious offenses. The practice warrants the assumption that it is part of the system resulting in the grave conditions causing the present investigation of vice and crime by the office of the district attorney.

Keep to Appropriations Council Warns City Heads

Budget means budget, the legislative branch of the city government intimates to the administrative arm. A motion adopted by Council warns the Mayor and heads of all departments to hold all purchases within the limits of appropriations. It further directs that all activities of any departments be stopped when it has no more money.

Budget-making time approaches for Council. When it begins work on allocating funds to the various departments for 1929 it desires no deficits or unpaid bills. Hence the warning.

Council must be commended for this stand. It has been endeavoring to put the city on the economic business basis that contemplates a preview of municipal requirements for a year and arranging in advance for the payment of them. It is a good plan. But it is difficult to change free and easy habits. Some departments seem not to realize that there has been a change from methods that formerly prevailed.

The only way to bring about such a realization is the stand Council has taken.

Pity This Woman

There Are Millions Like Her, and Would Be More If Some Men Had Their Way.

A MOHAMMEDAN WOMAN IN INDIA SITTING OUTSIDE THE TEMPLE, FORBIDDEN TO ENTER.

Many will find it hard to believe that this is a natural picture of a Mohammedan woman in India, sitting outside of a religious temple which she must not enter, because she is "only a vile female." Here she sits, dressed in the costume that her lord and master demands that she shall wear.

This woman lives, as the native language has it, "in Purdah," that is to say, shut away from men and from contact with the world.

There is protest against this treatment of women in India, and no wonder.

The aged Begum, Princess-Mother of Bhopal, lives "in Purdah," but protests bitterly against it.

Custom, prejudice and superstition are so strong that even a woman of royal power is bound by them, just as the great ladies of China were crippled and bound in their foot-torturing shoes until recently.

This picture is interesting as illustrating conditions among some of those that inhabit India.

There are even worse conditions among tens of millions of miserable "untouchables," despised and looked down upon by those of a higher caste. Higher caste Hindus consider it a disgrace to breathe the same air as the "untouchables," and as for TOUCHING them, it is worse than touching a man with leprosy.

You hear pitiful appeals from long whiskered poets like Tagore, or fanatic ascetics like Gandhi, urging "freedom for India."

This picture shows you what their so-called "freedom" would give to India, and to the women of India.

Miserable little Hindu girls, even now, are married at eight or nine years of age, and brought to bed with child, with horrible suffering, at eleven and twelve.

Miserable animals are allowed to die of hunger and thirst, wandering through the streets, because it is "against religion" to kill them and put them out of their misery.

Western countries will not feel any great excitement about helping India to free herself from Britain, which forbids such brutalities, including burning alive of the widows of old men, until India shows some inclination to free herself from THIS kind of thing.

Big Business Is Branching Out

Bible Passages

Virtues and Vices

(Proverbs 11; 12-31.)

He that is void of wisdom despiseth his neighbour: but a man of understanding holdeth his peace.

A talebearer revealeth secrets: but he that is of a faithful spirit concealeth the matter.

Where no counsel is, the people fall: but in the multitude of counsellors there is safety.

He that is surety for a stranger shall smart for it: and he that hateth suretiship is sure.

A gracious woman retaineth honour: and strong men retain riches.

The merciful man doeth good to his own soul: but he that is cruel troubleth his own flesh.

The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but to him that soweth righteousness shall be a sure reward.

As righteousness tendeth to life: so he that pursueth evil pursueth it to his own death.

They that are of a froward heart are abomination to the Lord: but such as are upright in their way are his delight.

Though hand join in hand, the wicked shall not be unpunished: but the seed of the righteous shall be delivered.

As a jewel of gold in a swine's snout, so is a fair woman which is without discretion.

The desire of the righteous is only good: but the expectation of the wicked is wrath.

There is that scattereth, and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.

The liberal soul shall be made fat: and he that watereth shall be watered also himself.

He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him: but blessing shall be upon the head of him that selleth it.

He that diligently seeketh good procureth favour: but he that seeketh mischief, it shall come unto him.

He that trusteth in his riches shall fall: but the righteous shall flourish as a branch.

He that troubleth his own house shall inherit the wind: and the fool shall be servant to the wise of heart.

The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life; and he that winneth souls is wise.

Behold, the righteous shall be recompensed in the earth: much more the wicked and the sinner.

The Unfair Sex

For reasons inexplicable pretty young women are becoming bandits in New York City, adding to the difficulty men find in making a living in an overcrowded profession. This condition of things is bad enough, but the girls make it worse by their methods.

In Coney Island a young woman, not content with the loot from a poker game, stole the shield of the policeman who was sitting in for a few hands before going on duty. In The Bronx, another girl wept hysterically until the door of an apartment was opened to let her hold up the tenants. On Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, a lass smiled at a silly man who invited her to ride in his motor, then undertook to teach her the art of driving. She learned in five minutes and drove the car into an ambush of her associates.

Tactics of this kind are contrary to the rules of the game and constitute a defiance of all conventions and inflict needless cruelty and humiliation on the victims. Men as a class are putty in the hands of women anyway and violence rarely, if ever, is necessary to separate fools from their money. Truly, the girls should have more consideration for the feelings of the satirically styled stronger sex.

ONCE OVERS

—By J. J. Mundy—

Think Before You Advise

Are you not given to answering questions quickly and unthinkingly?

You take pride in your quick judgment.

You want to be considered a quick, rapid thinker.

You are prone to give opinions and information which are not well founded or accurate.

You have attended meetings where important things were under consideration.

At these gatherings there were men who quickly offered suggestions to every problem submitted.

And didn't you notice that these suggestions were seldom acted upon?

Some men sat back and listened—allowed others to do much talking.

The men who said least, but listened best, were the ones who gave out something of real value when they did see fit to talk.

Men of good judgment are slow to speak but keen to think.

Such men don't shoot before they are ready to fire.

You would be considered a more valuable advisor if you would give more careful thought to questions before you attempt to answer them.

GULF MYSTERY

—By Garrett P. Serviss—

"For the benefit of many of your readers will you give a detailed descripton of the Mexican Gulf Stream, and benefits to lands in its entire course, including its return from the iced fields to the African coast? — Carlos Barnet, New York."

This is a very broad commission, broader, indeed, than the subject, or than human knowledge concerning it, warrants. The Gulf Stream, notwithstanding its celebrity, is still to a large extent mythical, because it has never been thoroughly explored. If our government gave as much aid to the advancement of knowledge as to preparation for war (and I by no means would oppose preparedness against aggression), we could have a solution of the Gulf Stream mystery within a few years that the whole world would welcome and acclaim. Send several exploring vessels, simultaneously, to those parts of the Atlantic Ocean where the Gulf Stream is known or suspected to give evidence of its existence; instruct the commanders to see that their corps of observers concentrate their efforts on the single object of tracing the Gulf Stream and learning its characteristics; combine the results of all the observations for a complete discussion—and then we should really know something about this mighty "river in the ocean," its origin, its course, its peculiarities, and its benefits to mankind. It would probably be necessary to repeat the explorations at intervals of several years, for the Gulf Stream appears to be a variable phenomenon.

What we do apparently know is that there runs out of the Gulf of Mexico, through the straits of Florida, a powerful current deep enough to sweep clean the bottom within the straits, and consisting of relatively warm water, which, some observers have declared, is sharply distinguished from the water of the ocean on either side by its deeper blue color. This great current seems to arise from an accumulation of water in the Gulf of Mexico caused by indrift through the Caribbean Sea from the Atlantic under the influence of the trade winds, which drive westward toward the American coast. The Gulf of Mexico is a cul-de-sac, with an escape through the straits of Florida.

Once out of the straits, the stream follows the American coast northward, gradually becoming broader and shallower, and sheering toward the northeast. It passes south of Newfoundland into the center of the north Atlantic. Between the longitude of New England and Newfoundland it is supposed to encounter a cold current from the north—the Labrador current. This current brings down the icebergs, and the Gulf Stream is generally pictured as melting the bergs and strewing the ocean bottom around Newfoundland with the material forming the famous banks.

Just what happens when these giants of polar cold and equatorial heat encounter one another, if they do so encounter, will be one of the most interesting questions for the scientific explorers to investigate. Some say the two great streams sway to and fro in their struggle, producing extraordinary weather contrasts in the eastern United States, and alternately filling the New England seas with tropical fish and then with Arctic species. Others laugh at this, and even go so far as to affirm that the Gulf Stream and the Labrador current are both figments of a sailor's or a fisherman's imagination.

The latest reliable investigations seem to show that the Gulf Stream does not retain its individuality after turning from the American coast, but becomes, at best, a wide system of surface currents drifting eastward and northeastward. On the other hand, we have the persistent theory that the Gulf Stream, though greatly broadened and thereby weakened, not only encounters the British Isles and gives them their genial climate, but continues on northward to the Scandinavian shores. It also is asserted that a branch of the stream turns southward along France and Spain and rejoins the westward current under the trade winds. It is all a fascinating subject, but we need more sure knowledge about it.

Tales That Are Told

Incurable

The young man had complained of insomnia and, visiting a specialist, he was told to count until he fell asleep. He was also given a prescription.

On the following day he paid another visit to the specialist, and the latter was surprised to see that his patient looked even more tired than ever.

"Did you take the medicine?" he asked.

"Yes."

"You didn't forget to count as I told you?"

"No; I counted up to 19,568—"

"And then," said the specialist, "you fell asleep?"

"No," replied the patient; "it was time to get up."

Deceptive

She was a pretty little thing, short-skirted, pink-cheeked, red-lipped, and shingled. As she tripped lightly down the stairs leading to the station many an admiring glance was cast in her direction.

"What a bird!" exclaimed one young man to his companion, as they trailed in her wake. "Wonder who she's going to meet?"

As the lovely creature emerged from the train at her destination, a handsome, broad-shouldered man, fully six feet tall, clasped her in his arms and kissed her fondly.

"Mother!" he explained, "I began to think p'r'aps I'd missed you."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

Traffic courts in the big towns ain't so funny as they sound in the jokes, or everybody would be going there for their holidays. If you happen to think of a good smart crack for the judge, you generally keep it to yourself.

But they tell me about a guy that was brought up for speeding.

"Well," says the judge, "you claim to be a law-abiding citizen, I reckon?"

"Sure, judge, I never done anything wrong in my life."

"Well, how come you were going 60 miles an hour when this here cop caught you?"

"Why, judge, that was because I had to slow up on account of some real bad holes in the road," he says.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Centenarian

He lived a hundred years and so
Loved much his youth had held too strange,
Saw much of good to better grow
In earth's unceasing, upward change.

He lived a hundred years. He learned
To read the souls of men at length;
He knew the heights for which they yearned
And all their weakness, all their strength.

Wise counsellor and faithful friend,
A hundred years were his; we know
He grew too weary at the end
And life, who loved him, let him go.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—In East Eighty-sixth street in the Yorkville section there has sprung up a colorful slice of Munich with a touch of the old but not forgotten days of Cincinnati's Over the Rhine tossed in. The district is German, the tastes Teutonic and the atmosphere provided is attracting gad-abouts.

A group of the pleasant old brownstone fronts have been converted into quaint beer houses—replicas of the Tiroler Bier-Stuberl. There are four in one block bearing such picturesque names as Maxl's Braustuberl, Old Munich and such and gaudily painted in green, yellow and pink.

Waiters named Hans, Fritz and Heinie are dressed in the Tyrolean manner with short leather breeches, green vests with red edging and half socks known as wadenstrimpfe. Ruddy checked Tiroler peasant types strum zithers and guitars.

Proprietors are plump and affable old world types who give every guest a quick handshake and as the evening grows merrier lead them in such songs as the famous "Eins, Zwei, Drei." Remember? And everybody bursts into full throated melody.

On the menus are listed tempting German dishes, such as weiss wurst, Bismarck herring, rollmops, bratwurst, knackwurst, pigs knuckles and sauerkraut, and other savory yum-yums. Beer is the only tipple and it is not much over the proper alcoholic content, if any.

It is served from kegs in enormous chilled flagons, frothing over into the felt mats with the German mottoes. The price is fixed at 50 cents a half-leider and while lacking the old-time alcoholic wallop it is served as good beer should be served.

The places were fashioned with no thought of appealing to any patronage save that in the district. But the color of the dashing fronts began to attract others and in a few weeks a visit to them became "a stunt"—and now they are packed from noon until midnight.

Other beer places spring up over town from time to time but they are chiefly those hurriedly prepared to do a rousing business until a padlock clicks. The waiters in some do not wear aprons and keep hats and coats on so when the raiders arrive they just keep on walking.

In one of the windows of Mr. Saks—the Fifth avenue one, of course—there was a modernistic figure capped by a woman's cloche hat. A gentleman teetered up, took off his glasses, wiped them and took another look. "S'terrible world," he hiccoughed gloomily and lurched away.

His wife, according to a New Yorker, seeking to sever the matrimonial knot, smokes a half dozen cigarets in bed with her morning coffee. And adds: "Twice she has set the bed on fire." If he doesn't get the divorce, he is at least entitled to something in the way of asbestos in pajamas.

As dawn faintly pinks Manhattan skies subway trains fill with venerable women with lusterless eyes. Most all are rheumatic, toothless and the sickly gray of the flounder's belly, composing the army of charwomen who make the giant office buildings bright and shining for another rushing day. They are gone with the rising of the sun, having made their creaking way back to top tenement house rooms. The average New Yorker never sees them. Many are mothers discarded by children who, in many instances, could keep them in comfort. They are a part of a big city's economic question mark.

An enthusiast writes: "New York is the only city I know that does not become uninteresting on the eve of a long journey." And come to think of it, it is odd how dull the place you are about to leave suddenly becomes. You feel sorry for those who are left behind.

English weekly and monthly periodicals continue to pout at New York newspapermen. Says one: "Most of the petty scribblers like to call themselves journalists and be referred to as members of the intelligentsia."

I, for one, am not even on the waiting list of the intelligentsia, although I have read a book.

THE DOERS

—By Dr. Frank Crane—

What this world needs is more doers and less talkers.

The man we feel most grateful toward and regard most kindly is the one who does us a generous act and never says anything about it. We find it out by accident and our hearts warm to him.

The man who is always saying, I am going to do this and that for you but does not do it, is a flunky. He wants the praise for generosity, but does not deliver the goods.

So the man who most truly reforms is the man who quits doing wrong, not the man who makes great promises. Most drunkards and most leaders of disorderly lives elsewhere are great promisers. They will tell you, while in their cups, that they are never going to drink another drop.

But the kind of reform today that we believe in is that of the man who quits doing wrong and makes no boast about it except to show his regret.

It is human to err and to make mistakes. But when we have done so the most righteous thing we can do is to quit, not to pray and not to promise, nor to resolve.

The first thing needed in a wrong doer is to quit his wrong doing.

We are not to turn for help to a higher power until we have ceased our wrong doing. The Bible says this of the first thing necessary: "Let the evil man forget his ways and the unrighteous man his thoughts."

The Master said that that man builds his house upon a rock—that is, he established his character most firmly—who hears his great Teacher's words and does them. It is the doing of them that is the rock of our reformation.

I remember once meeting a man who had been a steady drinker for years, but who had reformed. I asked him how he came to do it and what changed him. He said it was very simple. He said that the best way to quit anything was to quit.

A woman once came to a preacher and related her distress at being muddled in her religious views. After hearing her tale of woe the pastor simply asked her, "What are you doing that is wrong?" He knew that almost all our difficulties in religion are caused by our difficulties in conduct. The right kind of belief grows only out of the right kind of life.

You cannot believe the truth and live a lie.

OH, THESE WOMEN

—By Leola Allard—

A California woman is suing for breach of promise, saying a poor weak male twice backed out when she had him almost to the altar, and then he married another. The man says that he married to get away from the first woman, as he didn't want to marry her. He cried when he explained it in court. The wife comforted him and said she "understood."

From sweetheart to sweetheart,
Your power's nil;
If one doesn't get you,
Another will.

A lady was kind enough to take her colored laundress, who lived in an out-of-the-way place, home in her car. As they neared the house a little colored boy waved from a cliff nearby.

"That's my chile," said the colored laundress.

"Oh, look what he did," said the lady, "he put on a gray stocking and a brown one! Isn't he cute?"

"No, mam," said the laundress, "he done put both gray ones on, but one felled down."

"As long as you've got to sleep in your chair all evening," said a wife to her tired business man, "let's go to a movie and let me be entertained while you do it. Anyhow it's dark there, and you don't sleep so pretty."

A poor old woman wobbling down a New York street in the rain, thoroughly tipsy. Someone helped her to a doorstep, where she sat down and let the rain drip into her face, refreshingly.

"Terrible," said someone who passed that way.

"Terrible nothing," said a bystander. "Everybody who sees her in dis neighborhood will git jealous!"

There's a neighborhood!

A lady in Omaha changed ice men, because she found out that her's was also an undertaker, and she said: "I don't know, I just didn't like the idea."

A boy injured so that he can't work or can't even walk, gets $10,000. A woman whose heart is hurt, (maybe), sues for anything from $50,000 to $1,000,000—and oftener than not, she gets it.

Heart injuries that don't show, and from anything that anybody has ever been able to discover, do not prevent a woman from working, are not only the best paying injuries, but no one can prove that a woman's heart is not hurt. They can't even prove she hasn't one.

One woman who got half a million for not getting married, immediately captured another millionaire, and got her settlement before the wedding. It takes a woman to settle for something that hasn't even happened.
